HENRY E. HUNTINGTON DIES AFTER OPERATION IN EAST

Body of Financier Will be Brought Here for Burial on Estate; Nation Pays Him Tribute

A page of pictures of Mr. Huntington and his library and Art Gallery will be found on Page 12, Part II, of this edition of The Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23. (Exclusive)—Henry E. Huntington, Los Angeles capitalist, railroad executive, ship builder and world famous art and book collector, died in Lankenau Hospital here at 11 a.m. today. Death followed a decline in his condition after an operation performed by Dr. John B. Deaver, Philadelphia surgeon, on the 5th inst.

This had been Mr. Huntington's second operation by Dr. Deaver. In October, 1925, he was rushed to this city by special train from his California home.

Dr. Deaver then also operated on him at Lankenau Hospital and he recovered in several days. The nature of his second illness was kept secret by hospital authorities.

At the bedside when Mr. Huntington died were two daughters, Mrs. John H. Metcalf of Oakland, Cal., and Mrs. Marian Huntington of San Francisco; a sister, Mrs. Holladay of Pasadena, and Dr. E. Bryant, Mr. Huntington's personal physician and close friend. Another daughter, Mrs. Clara Perkins, is in Europe and was informed by cable of her father's death.

Immediately after news of his death was flashed throughout the country, business interests in which Mr. Huntington was active displayed flags at half-mast in tribute to him.

FUNERAL PARTY DUE AT END OF WEEK
A telegram indicating that the Huntington funeral party probably will arrive in Pasadena Saturday or Sunday was received yesterday by Vice-President George J. Kuhrtz of the Los Angeles Railway Company from Dr. Ernest A. Bryant of Los Angeles, who was Mr. Huntington's personal physician and is in Philadelphia with the body.

The party will leave Philadelphia this morning on Mr. Huntington's private car, San Marino, which will contain the body. Members of the family there, according to Mr. Kuhrtz's office, include Mr. Huntington's daughter, Mrs. John B. Metcalf, Mrs. Mont and Mrs. Marian Huntington of San Francisco, and his sister, Mrs. Burke Holladay of Pasadena.

The final resting place of Mr. Huntington will be a little tree-covered knoll on his estate, about a quarter of a mile from the residence and the Huntington family cemetery. The estate, which Mr. Huntington was building a beautiful marble mausoleum in honor of the memory of his wife, the late Mrs. Anna Huntington, is situated on the hills overlooking the city.

Mr. Huntington, who selected the site herself, will be buried there and her husband's remains will be reinterred in the same crypt. The design for the building was prepared by John Russell Pope, New York architect.

LINDBERGH SHOWED Legion's Ribbon Given Airman

Hero of Whole World Has Day of Many Honors and Tires at Close

Homage Leaves Him Unspoiled; Plans for Air Trips; New Suit Due

PARIS, May 23. (P)—Showed such honors as France in all her history never spontaneously has bestowed on another private citizen. Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh retired at the American Embassy tonight as unspoiled as he was when he arrived from America in his monoplane forty-eight hours before. In the coat lapel buttonhole of the borrowed suit of clothes he wore at several receptions tendered him by the French government and the French people today was the Red Ribbon of the Legion of Honor pinned on his chest by the President of the republic, M. Doumergue.

This was Capt. Lindbergh's first day of being honored, but it will not be his last, for the French government has many more honors in store for him. The French people have had but a glimpse of him, although they talk and read of little else. Premier Poincare received him this afternoon and M. Briand, Foreign Minister, arranged to give him a luncheon on Thursday, while M. Painleve, the War Minister, was to be his host for the mid-day meal on Friday.

APPEARS WEARIED
Tonight the young American airman, who, in crossing the Atlantic alone, has done more to rekindle French love for America than any one man since the war, appeared just a little weary from an arduous day of being honored.

"Well, I don't think of the reception you have had," he was asked. "I thought it was to be," said the modest Missourian, who brought letters of introduction with him on his flight because he knew no one in France.

He had been on his feet almost the whole day, but what he wanted most to do, he said, was to "walk around and see some of Paris, if possible."

The first thing this morning a tailor came to measure him for a suit of clothes, which will be delivered tomorrow—an all-time speed record for French tailors. Then he hurried out to Le Bourget to take a look at the "old bus" that brought him over from New York. He found it had not been very much damaged by the grand jury there after the crash, and the mechanics promised to have it fully repaired by tomorrow.

TO FLY OVER PARIS
He is going out to Le Bourget again tomorrow afternoon to bid bon voyage to two French aviators, Costes and Rignot, who expect to take off for Tokyo. Lindbergh wants to make a flight over Paris, and he may do it tomorrow. He intends to fly to Brussels Saturday, and on Monday will take his plane over the channel to London.

In the meantime, all his days in Paris are likely to be as full of engagements as his. "I am not on any hurry to get home, for I want to see a little of Europe, while I am over here," the boyish genius of the air said this evening. "I haven't accepted any offers that have come to me from America, and I am not going to consider any until I get home. We didn't make the flight with that idea in mind. We didn't come over here with any million-dollar ambitions."

Beginning with the call of the tailor this morning, Lindbergh did not have a moment's relaxation until in the privacy of the embassy he was able to get some sleep. He was not down to dinner tonight with only Ambassador Herriek and a few of the Ambassadors' relatives and close friends.

While he was busy today visiting President Doumergue, Premier Poincare and the Aero Club, where most of the great airmen of France are assembled to see him receive the club's gold medal, officials of many other governments called at the Embassy. Lindbergh would visit Sweden, the invitations being arranged by the American Legation.

ONE FROM KING GEORGE
Among the messages was one from the King of England, delivered to Capt. Lindbergh by the British Ambassador, Lord Curzon.

There were little dark rings of fatigue beginning to show beneath Lindbergh's eyes tonight, but he received two delegations of newspapermen. The first group, Swedish reporters, escorted by the secretary of their legation, called on the young flyer, whose father was born in their country. They wanted to know if Lindbergh would visit Sweden. He told them he had not yet made up his mind.

Ambassador Herriek informed them that Lindbergh had been invited by government officials to visit almost every country in Europe, but that he could not yet accept or decline the invitations because he had not yet made up his mind.

After the Swedish reporters had gone, others from almost as many lands as know what newspapers are fled into the Embassy. Lindbergh, tired as he was, consented to talk with them a while.

"What do you think of Paris now that you have been around a bit?" was the first question.

"Fine. I can't say too much for France. But I haven't really seen Paris at all. I should like to walk through Paris if possible."

"Alone?" someone asked. "But this his questioners thought would be a more hazardous adventure than crossing the Atlantic."

Several silly questions were asked, to each of which he replied, "Oh, that's one of those things you can't answer."

Then he was asked how it felt to be kissed on both cheeks. President Doumergue had done this to him.

A Bird of His Own Feather!

POEM EXTOLS HERO'S FEAT BYRD SHIP UNABLE TO LIFT LOAD

Maurice Rosland Uses Vivid Imagery to Chronicle Unprecedented Deed of Lindbergh

PARIS, May 23. (P)—A half hour after Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh landed on the Le Bourget flying field Saturday night Maurice Rosland, celebrated French poet, wrote a poem to the triumphant aviator. The poem, which was written on the flying field, is entitled "A Lindbergh" (To Lindbergh) and bears under the title the quotations of Alan Seeger: "J'ai l'indesensible Avee le Mort" ("I Have a Rendezvous With Death.")

The translation of the poem in thirteen four-line stanzas, is as follows:

I
You had danced all that night,
And you had left in uncertain light,
Alone, alone, alone, alone,
But not alone.

II
You had danced all that night,
And you had left alone at dawn,
And, seeing you leave thus alone,
The air still quivers.

III
And Newfoundland, with heart so young,
When solitary you passed above,
Knelling on the bare sand,
Sent up a prayer.

IV
You danced all that last day,
And you left alone when the day broke,
Your mother wept as she taught,
But less than her pupils.

V
And it was with a heart lost in the wind,
Which braved aloft the salty breeze,
And you loved not a single instant,
Son of Evangeline.

VI
And you flew a day and a half
Above the sea, above the earth;
A day and a half you did not sleep,
Not even a second.

VII
Young traveler with dream of steel,
In the coming day and the dawn
Dost know who 'twas that freed you
From that cell?

VIII
Dost know who made you, bold young man,
Strike straight for Paris, blindly
Which may have let you, ne'er having seen it.

IX
Dost know who let you hold in check
Death, distance and the solitude?
Dost know who called you to arrive
With such exactitude?

X
'Twas not the pride of this great feet
Nor the trembling praise of old
Europe,
Nor the white light at Le Bourget
turning,
Nor yet your perceptive.

XI
Nor was it yet two continents,
Which two days long breathed the same air,
Nor that you smiled at the moment when
You embraced your mother.

XII
'Twas those young men, with hearts
so brave,
Who, full of fervor and goodwill,
Came from your home, too soon forgot.
To die for France.

XIII
That which had brought you, predestined one,
Through all these risks where others
fell,
It was the rendezvous which they gave you
At their fresh graves.

San Diego Asks Capt. Lindbergh to Honor City

SAN DIEGO, May 23. (P)—The Chamber of Commerce today sent a cablegram to Capt. Charles Lindbergh, who flew to Paris in a San Diego-built airplane, asking him to be present at the dedication of an airport which has been proposed for the city.

The message also asks his approval of a plan to name the airport Lindbergh Field.

DE PINEDO OVERDUE

Azores Swept by Gales

Ship Reported Seen Towing Airplane Far Out of Pilot's Course

Italian Aviator on Way Home After Four-Continent Aerial Cruise

ROMA (Azores) May 23. (P)—Commander De Pinedo, the Italian flyer, had not arrived at the Azores at a late hour tonight. He was considerably overdue. There was great anxiety in Ponta over his fate.

A Portuguese gunboat and various motor boats searched all evening along the coast, but without finding any trace of the plane. Rainy weather prevailed, but the sea was smooth. A German cruiser was constantly on the lookout for the missing flyer.

The last report from De Pinedo's plane was several hours before he was due and he appeared to be flying in good shape.

LONDON, May 23. (P)—The steamship Oil Field reports having sighted a schooner towing an airplane tonight southwest of the Azores.

Details of the airplane could not be obtained. The time of sighting was 11:30 p.m. (Greenwich mean time) May 23. The position was Latitude 41.56, Longitude 23.35.

(The position indicated, which is considerably southwest of the Azores, means that if this is De Pinedo's plane, the Italian flyer was far out of his course.)

NEW YORK, May 23. (P)—Commander Francesco De Pinedo, en route to Rome after traversing four continents in an aerial world tour apparently was four hours overdue at 8 o'clock (eastern daylight saving time) tonight in his scheduled arrival in the Azores Islands.

Taking off at Trepassey, N. F., at 2:30 a.m., the Santa Maria II was scheduled to land at Ponta da Moura, by 4 p.m. Supplies had been made ready there against the possibility that he would decide to continue to Portugal.

The only subsequent report, a 12:30 p.m. was through the Radio Corporation of America, placing the plane believed to be that of Pinedo 800 miles northwest of his immediate goal.

After a heavy gale which swept the islands through the night, the weather in the vicinity of Ponta was reported as continuing unfavorable for flying with heavy, low-hanging clouds and a low barometer over near-by steamer lanes.

The fleet, consisting of more than 100 vessels, will leave Hampton Roads June 1.

LUTHER BURBANK'S PHYSICIAN KILLED

SANTA ROSA, May 23. (P)—Dr. Joseph H. Shaw, 44 years of age, personal physician to the late Luther Burbank, plant wizard, was killed here today when the automobile he was driving plunged from the road and turned over three times. He leaves a widow.

Will Rogers Remarks:

PORTLAND (Me.) May 23.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am in Maine for the first time now. I have showed in every State in the Union this year, even including New Hampshire. Maine is beautiful now and Portland is a great old town with a great harbor which in the old days not only harbored some great fleets, but some Democrats. Short sightedness has killed off both industries.

From Clerk to Multimillionaire, Story of Huntington's Life

OWN BUSINESS YOURSELF, HIS SUCCESS FORMULA

Although Financial Genius, World Knew Him Better as Patron of Art

(Maryland studio, Pasadena)

"From Hardware Clerk to Multimillionaire" might well be the title to the story of the life of Henry E. Huntington. It aints at one stroke the picture of the remarkable man that he was. No doubt the outstanding feature of his life was his interest in an almost unbelievable variety of things. That is, interest of a more than passing nature. He was not only a business man and financier of great genius but he was one of the outstanding art collectors of the world and a collector of rare plants and literary works.

Another striking fact about him was that although he was a millionaire, many times over, and the owner of a great fortune, he was not a miser. He was a man of great generosity and a man of great vision. He was a man who was not content with the life of a millionaire, but who was a man who was a man of great vision.

BECOMES RAIL CHIEF

The uncle had been pushing the construction of the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southern, but there was a stretch of about sixty miles down in Tennessee that was extremely hard work. It was not going right at all. The young nephew was asked to take on the job. He accepted. He was a man of great vision and a man of great energy. He was a man who was not content with the life of a millionaire, but who was a man who was a man of great vision.

RAN STORE ALONE

As to the job in the local hardware store, one version has it that the owner of the store fell sick and so the young boy took over. He was a man of great vision and a man of great energy. He was a man who was not content with the life of a millionaire, but who was a man who was a man of great vision.

HEAD OF SAWMILL

In 1874 Collis P. Huntington had acquired ownership of what came to be known as the Chesapeake and Ohio mill in Virginia. The state had been trying to complete the road from the Blue Ridge, but so many of the contractors had gone broke at a task. The elder Huntington soon turned out that the reason the contractors had been unsuccessful in their project was because they were not equipped to handle the work. He was a man of great vision and a man of great energy. He was a man who was not content with the life of a millionaire, but who was a man who was a man of great vision.

HUGE FUND REVEALED

Capitalist Aids Scholars

Sum of $8,000,000, Largest Ever Given, Will Carry on Life's Work

Farrand Heads Foundation for Anglo-American Historical Study

NEW YORK, May 23. (Exclusive)—With the death today in Philadelphia of Henry Edwards Huntington, multimillionaire patron of art and letters, there came to light what is undoubtedly the largest monetary contribution of its kind ever made—a trust fund of $8,000,000 to be used for research in American and English history.

The fact that Mr. Huntington had adopted a plan that would convert his famous building, housing a collection of priceless paintings, books and manuscripts, valued at $85,000,000, at San Marino, Cal., was made known last February, when Dr. Max Farrand resigned as head of the Commonwealth Fund to direct the work.

It was stated at the time that the great library, with all its resources, would become a "free research laboratory for the advancement of learning."

That Mr. Huntington had set aside $8,000,000 for historical research, and study of English and American sources was announced only today, a few hours after Mr. Huntington's death by Dr. A. W. Rosenbach, his confidential adviser. The principal speech of the fund, Mr. Rosenbach said, were Archer M. Huntington, nephew of the deceased; George P. Patton, Henry M. Robinson, Dr. Robert Andrew Millikan and himself. The income from the $8,000,000 will be used for the creation of fellowships for scholars engaged in historical research, for research work by the staff of the Huntington Library and for publication of research findings.

BOND FOR NATIONS

Referring to Mr. Huntington's interest in English and American literature, Mr. Rosenbach said:

"These interests of his are followed out in this fund, which will enhance by far the value of the San Marino library, turned over to the American people in 1922. The fund will be used to bring about a more thorough understanding of each other between Englishmen and Americans."

A. M. Spelling, author of old masters, paid tribute today to Mr. Huntington as a collector of art.

"Mr. Huntington had the finest collection of English portraits in the world," he declared. "His earliest interest in art and his continued one was chiefly for English painters. He bought only the finest of Reynolds and Gainsborough were his favorites. He had eight or ten pictures by Reynolds and about twelve by Gainsborough."

LIBRARY WILL BE GREAT RESEARCH LABORATORY

The Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Gallery, which its founder left to the world, will be made a great museum, and, under the plan of its organization, recently completed, will be an actively operating research laboratory in art and Anglo-American history.

The first objective of Dr. Farrand and his staff will be the study of the origin and development of the American civilization, as revealed by the vast amount of original historical documents, letters, books and manuscripts in the library, much of which has not been catalogued at present.

As various studies are completed, the results will be published in technical or popular form as occasion demands. The foundation will be similar to that operating the Wilson Observatory and other similar scientific institutions, and visiting scholars may be permitted to work at the library and gallery.

The entire control of these priceless treasures is vested in the trustees. The following list of the object of the foundation is given by Dr. Hale:

"Advancement of learning, the arts and sciences and to promote the public welfare; to preserve, protect and give permanence to the collections of books, manuscripts, and other objects acquired; to render the books, manuscripts and other contents available, under suitable regulations and restrictions, to scholars and other persons engaged in creative work in history, literature, art, science and kindred subjects, and to all persons whose qualifications meet the requirements of such rules and regulations; to disseminate and contribute to the advancement of useful information and knowledge; to prosecute and encourage study and research in original sources of history, literature, art, science and kindred subjects and to provide for research associates and fellows, consisting of scholars of exceptional ability engaged in special study and research in such subjects and generally to conduct an institution of educational value to the public."

Alameda Mole Site Selected for Bay Bridge

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23. (Exclusive)—The Rincon Hill-Alameda Mole site for the proposed transbay bridge was adopted by the Board of Supervisors by a vote of 17 to 10 today. The site was the first choice of a committee of three engineering experts, Robert Ridgway of New York, President Arthur Nevill Talbot of the University of Illinois and Maj. John D. Galloway of San Francisco.

Immediately after the adoption, it was voted to send a committee of nine to Washington, D.C., to lay the matter before the War Department. The committee will consist of Mayor Rolph, three Supervisors, the City Engineer, City Attorney and the experts who prepared the report. Selection of the site will be made immediately of east-bay cities and then steps taken to sound the bay waters along the proposed course, for foundation data.

DREAM OF IDEAL CITY VOICED YEARS AGO BY HUNTINGTON

Here was Henry E. Huntington's dream of Los Angeles, quoted in an interview with him published in The Times in 1908:

"I want to see Los Angeles the ideal city for the wage-worker, the city where the fairest wages are paid and the squarest treatment accorded; where contracts between labor and capital are inviolable; where labor has the confidence of capital and capital the confidence of labor; where strikes and boycotts and lockouts are known for what they are—the last resource of desperation; where, in short, an example is set for industrial freedom and prosperity in their highest form. That is worth struggling for."

In an interview with a Times reporter a few years ago he said, when reminded of his earlier hope, that his dream in this respect had been realized.

"For that matter," he asked, "where can you find a city comparable to Los Angeles at all? There is absolutely nothing like it. Here we sit, as it were, in the lap of nature. And on top of the bounties that fall to us from her hands we have built a city that is fulfilling our fondest dreams. Let me say right here that in my opinion one of the greatest factors in the upbuilding of Los Angeles has been the freedom that has been accorded labor here."

SCHOOL BOARDS UNDER FIRE

Parent-Teacher Speaker Asserts Children Suffer With Teachers Chosen Solely for Prettiness

OAKLAND, May 23. (P)—School trustees were today blamed for "Babbitt" or unindividualistic minds among children because the boards choose teachers "for their pretty faces rather than brains." Credit for this assertion goes to Mrs. Orville T. Bright of Illinois, honorary vice-president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, speaking before the body in its thirty-first annual convention here today.

Mrs. Bright declared that instead of a high-school pupil going wrong the whole world hears of it. "Mrs. Noble denied that there were more petting parties, smoking or drinking among school children today."

HOME TRAINING FLEA

Will C. Wood, former State Superintendent of Public Instruction, made a plea for better home training for children in his speech before the congress.

Declaring that if we would have better citizens in America we must have better homes, Wood asserted that the nation depends upon the family for its nourishment and continued restoration.

"The old Jewish fathers were right when they declared that the first five years of life are determinative of the kind of life one leads," added Wood. "Those years have seemed to many of us unproductive and labor. As a matter of fact they are the most important years in the entire life span."

The banquet was the crowning event of a day devoted to registration and business meetings. Mrs. A. H. Revere of Philadelphia, delivered the principal speech at the opening of the convention early today.

HEIRESS IN SIMPLE HOME

Alice Payson, Who Eloped With Struggling Artist, Keeps House in Apartment

NEW YORK, May 23. (Exclusive)—Love in a cottage—or its New York equivalent, love in two rooms, bath and kitchenette—is the astonishing experiment of Alice Payson, society heiress, who recently eloped with Frank Rennie, struggling young artist. The bridegroom is a brother of James Rennie, actor-brother of Dorothy Gish, the motion-picture star.

Renned in luxury, accustomed to the best that life affords, young Mrs. Rennie—she is 24 years of age; he is 23—today admitted that she will now turn her hand to cooking to assist her young husband in his grim struggle for fame and fortune. They were found tonight living in a small walk-up apartment over a Lexington-avenue tea room.

The whole romance was a madcap performance that for sheer recklessness and abandon makes the life of the average society girl look like a page from the book of etiquette. Both Mrs. Rennie and her husband, looking after their young couple, admitted that "We were married on April—April—when we were in Santa Ana, California. Apparently time meant nothing at all to these young lovers."

"April 29," supplied Mrs. Rennie. "Oh, yes, at the Municipal Building. They were just closing up shop, but City Clerk Cruise was very kind. He held off his lunch fifteen minutes for our honeymoon—and came back here and got this place."

A piano is crowded into the living-room with Rennie's easel. For Mrs. Rennie sings and plays—indeed, she almost embarked on a professional career before romance so suddenly entered her life.

STARVING MAN EATS SNAKES

Oil Man, Ill From Poison Water and Alone in Open for Weeks, Saved After Horrible Ordeal

SANTA BARBARA, May 23. (Exclusive)—A tragedy such as occurred many times in the early days of California, was averted near here today when two cowboys rescued J. W. Safright, aged oil prospector, from starvation. The man was found near a poison water hole three miles from Los Olivos and less than 300 yards from the State highway. There he had lived for fifty-one days on snakes, lizards, and sage tea because the water he drank was so poisonous that he lacked the strength to climb the hill to the road and help.

When he was found by the two cowboys he was near death, but he had the strength to pull out an identification card which disclosed that he belonged to Denver lodge of the Knights of Pythias and the Santa Barbara lodge was notified. Under the direction of Fred W. Clute, they now are caring for him.

He told his story today. For several years he resided in Los Angeles and was employed by the Union Oil Company. He was well known in the Long Beach Oil fields and was en route to San Luis Obispo when he was asked to look over the Buell ranch near the middle of Santa Barbara county. Safright, who is 50 years of age, walked over the ranch, and, becoming thirsty, took a drink from the water hole. In a short time

REDS TAMED AT GENEVA

Rebuke Given by Americans

Denial on Soviet Pretensions as to Credits Marks End of Economic Parley

All of Resolutions Accepted, With Turkish Delegates Withholding Votes

(Copyright, 1927, by The New York World)

GENEVA, May 23. (Exclusive)—The International Economic Conference closed tonight with unanimous acceptance—the Turkish delegates alone refraining from voting—of all resolutions and reports. The closing was featured by a taming of the Russians, in which the American delegation played a decisive part. The Americans administered a rebuke to the Soviets by issuing a complete denial of impressions the Russians have been seeking to create to the effect that they are on exceedingly intimate and friendly terms with the American delegation in regard to economic matters.

The Americans denied they had entered into negotiations of any kind with the Russians regarding credits, loans or recognition. Henry M. Robinson, spokesman, said that as far as the American delegation knew there had been no rapprochement between the United States and Russia. It was insisted the Americans would not and could not discuss these subjects even though they had been brought up by the Russians.

ROBINSON DENIAL

"All meetings of a social nature on the conference floor have been courteous and correct," Mr. Robinson said, "but they have not been with the object of negotiations between the two nations."

This denial became necessary when, according to the Americans, it was apparent the Russians sought to capitalize their purportedly close relations as a means of forcing to immediate conclusion their faltering credit negotiations with German financiers. The Russians were giving signs they would break off deals with Germany unless granted more favorable terms, because of the accessibility of American finance.

Gregory Sokolnikoff, former Soviet Minister of Finance, explained the opposition offered by his delegation last Saturday to the reports of commerce, industry and agriculture, was merely passive; that they merely stood by to accept because they were not members of the League of Nations.

ARMAMENT QUESTION

Limitation and reduction of armaments was recommended as a means of lightening tax burdens. The recommendation was unanimous, even the Russians joining in, although M. Sokolnikoff said the Russian proposal for complete world-wide disarmament was preferable.

Universal co-operation of economic and scientific progress was requested in another resolution. Removal of economic friction was a cause of international misunderstanding, it was stated, and by consideration of underlying principles rather than by seeking to alleviate actual effects according to a resolution adopted at the urging of Arthur Pugh, British labor leader. John William O'Leary of the United States declared that the "unexploited development of the world's raw materials and unexploited resources and co-operation of countries with exportable capital with countries having exportable resources, as the best means of alleviating unemployment and increasing the purchasing power. His suggestion was intended to accelerate the flow of United States capital into Europe."

Border Officers Disclose Secret in Huerta Arrest

TUCSON (Ariz.) May 23. (P)—United States border patrol officers today disclosed that it was upon information gained from Louis Gayou, said to be the secretary of the late President, former provisional President of Mexico, that charges of violating the neutrality laws of the United States against Dr. de Huerta and four others were based.

Gayou, according to the officers, was arrested by American soldiers and Francisco Ferris and guns and ammunition in his possession were seized. The officers said that the three made confessions which resulted in the location of other armaments.

A Federal subpoena for H. D. Morgan, manager of the Western Union Telegram Company at Nogales, Ariz., was served today ordering him to appear before a United States commissioner here June 3, with all telegrams signed by Dr. de Huerta and Louis Gayou, Francisco Ramon and Alfonso Gomez Morazan.

Many a Home Needs a Better Piano!

OUR forefathers knew one essential to lifetime happiness—the value of early musical training—and made their children practice the piano whenever they could. The child whose hands are at home on the piano knows how to enjoy himself as long as he lives.

If you have hesitated to start the musical training of your children because you feel it might take too much urging on your part, just bring them in this store, let them listen to the Kurtzmann, and note how eager they will be to have a Kurtzmann of their own.

For here is a piano of life-long appeal, with a singing tone as irresistible to youthful ears as it is to those master pianists whose critical sense is highly developed. And you can start your children with a Kurtzmann as economically as with any other instrument, for our convenient finance plan makes it so easy to buy out of future income. Ask us about it today.

LEGION OF HONOR RIBBON PINNED ON LINDBERGH

Whole World Showers Homage at Feet of Atlantic Conqueror;
Gets New Suit Today

Domergue having given him this customary French accolade in presenting him with the Legion of Honor.

"That's another one," said Lindbergh. He light-heartedly parried casual questions that touched on sundry subjects, but when anything was asked about his plane or his flight, or something germane to aviation, his smile would pass, his slim body would bend over a little nearer to the man who happened to be addressing him and a stream of words would flow from him in precise sentences, finely phrased.

He seemed never weary of talking about his earth-induction compass, to which he attributed the fact that all the way through darkness and storms over land and over sea his plane stayed steadily on its course and on the time schedule he had planned before leaving New York.

"We would not probably have got off the line with just an ordinary compass," he said, "but with the earth-induction compass you don't get such wide variations of the true north in different points of the globe. It is more accurate and less fatiguing. The fact that we came out to the Irish coast just three miles away from where we expected, is merely a coincidence. On the other hand, if we had been 100 miles away, it would not have been a coincidence. There would have been a danger of missing land even with an ordinary compass, because your maximum variation of error would not amount to more than a mile."

FISHING CALLS

Gen. Pershing was one of the few Americans who succeeded in getting past the cordon on guard at the gate of the Embassy today. Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States, was another of those who saw Lindbergh. It was his second visit, the flyer being still asleep when he called on the ambassador.

Another to whom Lindbergh gave some of his precious time was M. Levasseur, builder of the plane in which Nungesser and Galt set off for America. They talked together for an hour. Sir Alan Cobham, noted British flyer, who flew here yesterday especially to congratulate Lindbergh, also had a long talk with him today.

NO LONG AIR TRIPS

Capt. Lindbergh is not signing for any more oceans to conquer. When he was asked this afternoon if it were true that he intended to try to hop across the Pacific, he replied: "There is no foundation for that rumor. I have no intention of making another long flight for a good while. It will be several months before I think of anything like that."

"You should get some rest," was suggested him. "Colonel Galt did not go out again for five years."

"But he took four months for his trip," Lindbergh countered. "According to that I should be ready in three weeks."

After he has seen his mother, the first place Lindbergh wants to go to when he returns to America is St. Louis.

"That is my home town," he said. "Of course I want to go out to the coast, but that can come later on. I want to go home to St. Louis first."

LINDBERGH MAKES HIS FIRST ORATORICAL FLIGHT

PARIS, May 23. (AP)—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, making his first flight in oratory on this side of the Atlantic, today modestly ignored his own triumph to express profound regret for the loss of Capt. Nungesser and Galt "who undertook something far greater than the flight from New York to Paris."

His little speech, just three sentences, was made when the Aero Club gave him its great gold medal and announced that Mme. Deutch De La Meurthe, widow of the former president of the club, had sent a check for 150,000 francs (about $6000) to the club with instructions that a cup be presented to him. Mme. De La Meurthe also sent a check for 100,000 francs each for Capt. Nungesser's mother and Capt. Galt's family.

The burst of applause which followed upon these announcements and the words of praise that were heaped unthinkingly on the young American were reflected in his deep, thoughtful blue eyes. The American flyer does not know French, but he is smart enough to know when people are talking about him regardless of the language. When the medal was presented to the shy young American, he said:

LINDBERGH SPEECH
"Friends, I am not going to try to make a speech. I am just going to try to tell you how impossible it is for me to express my feelings. The only thing I can say is how deeply all the United States felt the loss of your two great aviators who undertook something greater than the flight from New York to Paris."

The crowd of notables that packed the Aero Club's salons cheered Capt. Lindbergh's modest effort of three sentences and when the storm had died down, he added another sentence: "We still hope that Nungesser and Galt will be found in some deserted post in Canada."

As quickly as his face had flushed during the encomiums directed at him, his deepest flush was when the president of the Aero Club presented the gold medal saying: "Lindbergh, you have set back the limits of the impossible."

Minister of War Painleve seemed to find difficulty in soaring to higher praise of the American flyer, but he roused the audience to the highest pitch of enthusiasm when he exclaimed:

"Lindbergh you have added to the sum of human heroism."

Ambassador Herriot achieved one of his most notable oratorical successes in France. During his address, when he cried:

FRIENDSHIP NOT ASLEEP
"Who can say, when he has seen this young man, who can say, when his achievement is weighed, when the spirit of his reception is considered, that the friendship that existed between France and the United States for 150 years has gone to sleep?"

This is young Lochinvar from the West, who brings you the spirit of America. It was at this moment that the spirit of friendship between the two peoples should manifest itself and when Lindbergh goes back, it will be to carry a message from France to the United States as up messenger could ever do."

Paul Claudel, France's new Ambassador to the United States, likewise paid tribute to Capt. Lindbergh and asked the audience to drink to the health of Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, the proudest mother in the United States.

The group of aviators which was present at the club to honor Capt. Lindbergh probably was the greatest gathering of noted aviators since the war. Among those present were Sadi Lecoq, Paulhan, Lemaître, Drouhin, Louis Bleriot, Leon Patiat, Lams and Blanchard.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION WIRE TO MOTHER

OAKLAND, May 23. (AP)—The National Congress of Parents and Teachers, in convention here today, sent a telegram congratulating the mother of Charles Lindbergh. The telegram sent to Mrs. Lindbergh's Detroit home read:

"Congratulations and felicitations on the safe arrival and heroic escape of your son in his transatlantic flight."

"NATIONAL CONGRESS OF PARENTS AND TEACHERS, assembled in Oakland, Cal."

CONQUEROR OF ATLANTIC REPLIES TO COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—Two brief messages acknowledging the congratulations of President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg on completion of his transatlantic flight were sent to Washington today by Lindbergh. The message to President Coolidge said:

"Your appreciative message filled me with gratitude."

The one to Secretary Kellogg said: "Your kind message tremendously appreciated."

SWEDEN AERO CLUB ASKS HIM TO VISIT

STOCKHOLM, May 23. (AP)—Every body in Sweden is proud that the hero of the day—Charles Lindbergh—is of Swedish descent. The Royal Aero Club of Sweden has awarded the flyer its highest gold decoration and invited him to come to receive it.

When the news of his landing reached the second Chamber of Parliament a message was drafted offering congratulations to the descendant of Swedish parents for a successfully completed achievement.

MAY COMPANY OFFERS APPAREL TO FLYER

The May department stores have offered Capt. Lindbergh whatever he needs in the way of apparel and he has accepted the offer with thanks. Tom May of the local store received word yesterday. He will be supplied through the company's Paris office at 17 Boulevard Poissonniere.

The offer was made by cable from the New York office of the company and accepted through Louis Weber, Paris representative, who called that Lindbergh appreciated the company's thoughtfulness.

HERO MADE HONORARY CITIZEN OF SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23. (AP)—When Capt. Charles Lindbergh turns to California he should feel at home, for he was made an honorary citizen of San Francisco today by Mayor Rolph and the Board of Supervisors.

Count Felix von Luckner, ex-sea raider, now bent with messages of good will from Germany, was honored likewise.

Abbey Canovel, chaplain of the French "Derby" club, Mrs. Lutz Tetrazzini and Mme. Schumann-Heink, opera singers, and Edmond De Valera, Irish republic leader, are the only others whose names are on the honorary citizens' list.

Lindbergh was notified of his adoption by San Francisco by cable, and a suitably engrossed copy of the resolution will be sent to his mother in Detroit.

LINDBERGH AND LOST AIR HEROES REMEMBERED

PARIS, May 23. (AP)—Mme. Deutch De La Meurthe, widow of the former president of the Aero Club of France, today sent a check for 350,000 francs (about $14,000 at the present rate of exchange) to the Aero Club with the instructions that 150,000 francs be spent on a cup for Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh and 100,000 francs each be given to Capt. Charles Nungesser's mother and Capt. Francis Galt's family.

Her instructions and check were contained in a letter which was read at this afternoon's ceremonies in which the gold medal of the Aero Club was conferred upon Capt. Lindbergh, Minister of War Painleve, other officials and every air man who could get to Paris attended the ceremonies.

He immediately returned to Scott's base and was sent to San Antonio. Maj. Strauss, however, was not at the helm when his ship crashed today.

The TC-10-263 was built at a cost of approximately $35,000 and the recovery of the engines and instruments will be a large sum of this sum. More than 200,000 cubic feet of valuable helium gas was lost.

BRONX FURRIER MISTAKEN FOR FLYER STRIPPED OF SOUVENIRS

(Copyright, 1927, by Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, May 23. (Exclusive)—The American whom the mob mistook for Capt. Lindbergh at Le Bourget flying field Saturday night, carrying him across the airfield on their shoulders, was a furrier named Harry S. New. He was mistaken for the pilot, and he was stripped of his belongings.

The crowd, seeing me hatless and hair rumpled, and carrying the helmet, thought I was the pilot, hoisted me to their shoulders and dragged me across the field to where the ambulance was waiting, although I tried to explain that I was not the hero. But they could not understand English. Mr. Herriot realized the mistake they had made, shook hands with me and asked if I was hurt, and I gave him Capt. Lindbergh's headgear.

The crowd tore off one of my trousers legs and took everything in my pockets except my passport, wallet, containing money and papers, as well as my hat, my collar and tie.

"When the airplane came down, I rushed across the field with the others. Arriving beside the machine, I saw them drag Capt. Lindbergh out. I picked up his helmet, which he

MOTHER DAZED BY ACCLAIM

Mrs. Lindbergh Back at Work Will See Her Boy Only When He Returns Home

DETROIT, May 23. (AP)—Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh was back at her duties today as instructor in Cass Technical High School here, admittedly a little dazed by the spotlights of publicity into which the epochal transatlantic flight of her son Charles had thrust her, but proud "beyond measure."

Mrs. Lindbergh will see her boy when he returns to the United States and not before, she said in discussing offers from the United States and French lines of free passage to Paris and back.

"My boy went to Paris unassisted and he is able to stand on his own feet," she said. "He is in the hands of friends and does not need me now."

The Detroit City Council today invited the young flyer here to visit Detroit, his birthplace, as a guest of the city.

RESOLUTION LAUDS MOTHER
A resolution prepared by Councilman William P. Bradley and adopted by the Council, commended Mrs. Lindbergh.

"Mrs. Lindbergh allowed her son to shape his own destiny," he said. "She is an ideal mother."

Although Mrs. Lindbergh sought to keep herself entirely in the background, that the glory of her son's achievement might go to him alone, fellow-teachers and pupils at Cass Technical High School would not be denied. They arranged a mass meeting with addresses by John C. Lodge, her uncle, as acting Mayor, and Frank Cody, superintendent of the public schools of Detroit.

The school orchestra of twelve pieces furnished music. Mrs. Lindbergh was in the schoolroom as usual today as though nothing out of the ordinary had happened over the week-end.

"It's my son's adventure, not mine, and I'm going to work as usual," she said.

REFUSES FILM CONTRACT
Mrs. Lindbergh today refused to sign a contract said to have totaled more than $100,000 for her appearance in a motion picture of the American mother. Although she refused to discuss the offer, it was said that it ran "well into six figures."

Mrs. Lindbergh plans to go to New York to meet her son on his arrival from Europe.

Bedeviled by the unparalleled acclaim of her son's deed, Mrs. Lindbergh yesterday sought refuge from an army of interviewers, but later consented to talk to newspaper men.

She had hesitated to speak for publication, Mrs. Lindbergh said, "because all the credit is due my boy, and I don't want to take it. This was a lone venture for him. All the glory is his."

Mrs. Lindbergh said she was impressed by the solicitation regarding her son.

"It just goes to show you how much people are thinking of what he has done," she said. "I think it was wonderful the way he was received in Paris. I am grateful to the people of France for the spirit they have shown. I was somewhat worried over reports of animosity toward Americans, and I was wondering how they would take his success, following so shortly the disaster of Nungesser and Galt. The French people are certainly wonderful and we must appreciate what they have done," said Mrs. Lindbergh.

Mrs. Lindbergh displayed scores of telegrams and cables of congratulations received from over the world. Excerpts from them follow: "Your son has written a chapter in American history that will always be an inspiration to the country."

"Warmest congratulations. Your incomparable son is a guest under Uncle Sam's roof."

Postmaster-General Harry S. New: "Your son has contributed the most notable chapter in the history of aviation."

Edward P. Warner, in behalf of the Navy Department: "Every American honors your pride in him and his achievements."

Celichanowski, Prime Minister of Poland: "Full admiration for the plucky achievement of Charles Lindbergh through which he has scored the finest victory for American aviation."

Mrs. Lindbergh recounted with pride the tribute of a schoolboy.

"The crowd tore off one of my trousers legs and took everything in my pockets except my passport, wallet, containing money and papers, as well as my hat, my collar and tie."

Official Figures on Flight Show Record Broken

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh was credited today with covering 3616 miles or 5800.7 kilometers on his New York-to-Paris flight by the Geological Survey, which makes the official air-line flight calculations for the National Aeronautics Association.

On this basis Lindbergh broke the non-stop distance record established last October by the French aviators, Rignot and Costes, on a flight from Paris to Persia. They covered 3313 miles or 5330 kilometers.

The association intends to certify the Geological Survey's estimate to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale with a request that it be officially recognized as a new record.

Two Producers Back Out of Move to Limit Flow of Fields

Work Warns That Stabilizing Agreement Must Stay Within Law

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—The movement to restrict voluntarily the production of crude oil is finding increasing obstacles. A meeting of oil men and government officials here today, called in the hope of formulating a definite restriction plan, produced no apparent result except to disclose that the oil producers are themselves divided on the subject, while the government is reserving judgment. Another meeting is to convene in New York on Wednesday.

Already three large producers, including the Gulf Oil Company, a Mellon corporation, have washed their hands of the project for a restrictive agreement. Whether an effective agreement can be made without them is a question about which leaders of the industry are not overoptimistic. Doubt over the outlook was expressed in a preliminary report sent to today's conference by Ray M. Collins of Tulsa, recently chosen as an umpire to work out a program for curbing a flow of oil in southwestern fields which is looked upon by the industry as amounting to serious overproduction.

DOHERTY STAYS OUT

To what extent the withdrawal of the Gulf company may reflect the personal opinion of Secretary Mellon remains undecided. Secretary Work, who is head of the government's Oil Conservation Board, told the conference today that Federal officials were anxious to see stabilization in the oil industry, but he added that whatever is done must, of course, be done properly under the law. The legal aspect of restrictive proposals is understood to have been under consideration at the Justice Department, but no opinion has been announced.

Of the five oil men who had been designated to meet with Secretary Work today, one was G. S. Davidson of the Gulf company, which is one of the heaviest producers in the rich Seminole field of Oklahoma. At a recent meeting in New York Mr. Davidson was said to have accepted membership on the committee, but he sent word today he could not serve. His reasons were not publicly announced, but it was indicated that he had given notice that his company did not care to proceed with a restriction program.

Another prominent Southwest producer, Barnard & Co., also participated in the New York conference and afterward indicated its unwillingness to have a part in the program, while a third outstanding figure in the oil world, Henry L. Doherty, has kept outside the venture from the start. Announcement of Mr. Collins' doubt whether restriction of drilling would accomplish anything concrete was made here by Walter G. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. His statement followed one by Secretary Work who called attention that the oil board had reported and still believed that there had been haste, waste and disregard for the laws of economics in oil operations and that the industry should be encouraged to employ more constructive and economic principles in the conduct of its drilling operations.

PLAN NOT ILLEGAL

Members on the oil committee besides Mr. Teagle were Amos M. Beath of the Texas Company; R. W. Stewart of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana; and Henry Dawes of the Pure Oil Company.

Mr. Collins had suggested a plan, Mr. Teagle said, and believes it will be effective. The details of this were not announced, although it was stated that it will be taken under consideration at the New York meeting. It was understood that the plan depends on the full co-operation of all the operators.

He declared emphatically that the operators were considering no plan which could be attacked as illegal and added that the committee prefers to make a start in the Seminole field of Oklahoma where 355,000 barrels a day were produced last week. Conservation measures, Secretary Work told the conference would be justified and become popular with both producer and consumer if they are directed toward lowering the cost of production and effecting saving in oil in labor and in capital expenditure.

The Interior Department's policy, he continued, has been to meet the operators on government land more than half way in meeting the situation. The government also had refrained, he added, from putting its oil land holdings on the market when production was unneeded and unprofitable, "so far as the law permits this type of conservation."

He said that on public oil lands, wells are producing less than half their capacity and that today there is an actual shut-in production of 120,000 barrels a day, practically all of which could be immediately made available when the market needed it.

HINDU CENSORS CALL BRITISH FILM "LOW"

LONDON, May 23. (Exclusive)—The British film interests, which have got the bill restricting American films nearly through Parliament, learned today that the Calcutta film censors banned the "Triumph of the Rat," a British production featuring Ivor Novello and considered to be his finest work. It was banned because the Hindu censors objected to the "low moral tone." The Hindus said that the treatment of women as portrayed in the film was too indecent.

San Lucas and Tia Juana Will Be Linked Soon by Improved Highway

MEXICO CITY, May 23. (Exclusive)—Some time toward the end of July or the beginning of August there will be inaugurated one of the most important projects undertaken under the Mexican government's road-building program.

This is the highway that will run the entire length of the Mexican Territory of Lower California, all the way from San Lucas to the border town of Tia Juana. The highway will open up for exploitation the numerous sources of wealth of the southern and northern districts of Lower California. In addition, it is expected that tourist travel will be stimulated. It is declared that the entire distance, from north to south of Lower California, now can be made by automobile within six days, before the project was entered upon, required at least two months, and involved serious difficulties and no little danger.

That section of the new highway between the terminal at San Lucas and the town of Tia Juana officially was just in use only a few days ago by the government of the southern district of the Territory of Lower California, which built that section.

Accordingly, it now is possible to go from San Lucas to Tia Juana, in the central part of the peninsula, through the towns of La Paz, Todos Santos and Magdalena Bay, a distance of approximately 400 miles, in three days, instead of the month that used to be required for the same trip.

The census is announced by the Department of National Statistics, which is to perform the task under the direction of Juan de Dios Borjomea, chief of the department.

It has been determined to advance the date one year in order that Mexico's national census may coincide with the world census, which is to be completed in 1930. The 1930 census, according to Senator Borjomea, will be carried out along lines of the strictest accuracy.

ALCOHOLIC DRINKS INCREASE IN MEXICO

FULQUE AND BEER PROVE MOST POPULAR WITH MASSES IN SOUTHERN REPUBLIC

MEXICO CITY, May 23. (Exclusive)—The manufacture of alcoholic beverages in Mexico is increasing at an enormous rate, it is revealed by the official statistics made public for the year 1926.

According to figures issued through the Department of National Statistics, Mexico during 1926 produced 290,000,000 liters (approximately 900,000,000 quarts) of alcoholic drinks. It is one-half the population is considered as possible consumers of liquor, the figure is reached that there are alcoholic drinks consumed annually per capita in Mexico.

The production of alcohol for the year exceeded that for 1925 by some 30,000,000 liters. By far the most popular drink is pulque, a native product, made from the sugary plant. Pulque during 1926 was manufactured to the extent of about 200,000,000 liters. Beer was the second largest alcohol consumed during the year, the manufacture coming to about 70,000,000 liters.

STIMSON GIVES HIS ACCOUNTING

Coolidge Receives Report on Work in Nicaragua

Peace Attributed to Faith in President's Promise

Chance to Win Confidence of Nation Cited

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—A report on his mission to effect peace in war-torn Nicaragua was given to President Coolidge today by Henry L. Stimson, the Executive's personal envoy.

Verbally he recounted to the President the terms of the truce between the Conservative and Liberal armies and their agreement to accept American supervision of the 1928 elections when a successor to President Diaz will be named. Mr. Stimson said he might make a written report to the President later.

After conferring with Secretary Kellogg and Assistant Secretary Olds, of the State Department, Mr. Stimson issued a statement in which he described the offer of the United States to supervise the elections as "an opportunity to win the confidence of Nicaragua and to perform a great constructive service to the whole of Central America."

"I feel sure," he said, "that it will be regarded by our people as a sacred trust."

FAITH IN PROMISE
Mr. Stimson said that reports from Nicaragua indicated that disarmament of Conservatives, Liberals and guerrilla hands was nearing completion and that the "this transition from war to peace has been accomplished by the faith which both sides have in the promise of the President," to guarantee fair elections. State Department officials revealed that Col. Stimson went to Nicaragua with wide discretionary powers to effect a peace settlement. It was brought out that the threat to use American marines to disarm the Liberals if they did not surrender their arms was made by Stimson and put in writing at the request of Gen. Moncada, commander of the Liberal army. It was explained that Moncada desired the statement to assist him in influencing his troops to give up their weapons.BREACH DISCLOSED
Mr. Stimson's negotiations with Moncada after he had failed to reach a settlement with the three representatives of Dr. Juan Sacasa, a Liberal political leader, developed that a wide breach existed between the general and the other two leaders. Moncada had been fighting some time before Sacasa took over the leadership of the campaign and had accepted the post of War Minister in the Sacasa Cabinet, but when Sacasa refused to accept the Stimson peace terms Moncada, again to the detriment of the Liberal army, his acceptance of the continuance of President Diaz in office until the elections, was conditioned only on Mr. Stimson's insistence upon that stipulation in the peace offer.Stanford Man's Invention Will Visualize Voice
SAN FRANCISCO, May 23. (Exclusive)—Marcel D. Lussman, graduate student of Stanford University, announced here today that he has perfected an instrument, which makes the human voice visible to the eye. It is a tone analyzer, he declared, to record the pitch of the voice, and he believes it will be of great benefit in reducing the cost of voice culture.

The singer, he explained, sings into a cornucopia behind which is a vibrating dotted disk. If the tone is fundamental, that is, exactly correct, the dots on the disk corresponding to the tone vibrations seem to stand still. If the tone is off, the dots whirl. Thus, the singer is able to determine immediately if the pitch is true. Voice strain, he said, is greatly reduced by the habit of tuning the voice correctly.

The dynamite, believed by authorities to have been placed early today by two men, was exploded by the dry law activities, was tampered in to the rear foundation of the house. The explosion ripped out the entire rear part of the structure and shattered windows within a radius of two blocks.

HAMMOND (Ind.) May 23. (AP)—Three masked and armed bandits in a large automobile forced the auto-mobil of a woman messenger for the Maywood Trust and Savings Bank to the curb here at noon today, grabbed a matchbox containing $25,000 in currency and $100 in silver and escaped. The money was being transferred from the Citizens National Bank to the Maywood institution.

WHY is this car being run in an ice box?

EVERY DAY and every night—summer and winter—a General Motors car is being tested in this big ice box in the General Motors Research Laboratories.

The temperature can be lowered to 30 degrees below zero. Ease of starting, acceleration, gas consumption, richness of mixture, oil dilution—every factor of winter driving can be tested out at every degree of temperature. The records are checked by General Motors research engineers who send them back to the engineering staffs at the various plants.

This is but one of many ways in which General Motors is using its resources to increase the value of its cars. And you may buy any General Motors car with assurance that next winter it will make your driving easier and more satisfactory.

STANFORD GETS NEW HOSPITAL

Western Diagnosis Unit for Veterans' Bureau Will Be Established

PALO ALTO, May 23. (AP)—Plans were announced today for the establishment within a month of a diagnosis center for all twenty-three United States veterans' hospitals in the western district.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, and permanent chairman of the medical advisory council of the Veterans' Bureau, said he received word of the plan from Dr. B. W. Black, medical director of the Veterans' Bureau in Washington, D. C.

A new ward is now being erected adjacent to the veterans' hospital to accommodate 150 beds. Ten resident physicians will be added to the present staff and twenty-three specialists will be retained as members of the consulting board.

Phone Interests Ask Reversal in Property Ruling

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23. (AP)—The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Southern California Telephone Company to request the State Supreme Court to reverse a decision by the State Board of Equalization which classifies certain of their properties as "non-operatives," thus making them liable to county taxation.

The properties are chiefly buildings at San Francisco, Los Angeles, Oakland and in Santa Clara county. At a hearing the 18th inst., the State Board of Equalization held that the buildings in question, because of being leased and not owned by the telephone companies, were non-operatives.

The telephone interests request a writ of mandamus on the grounds that the buildings, even though leased, are a portion of their operative properties and should be so classified, making them free from county taxation.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Prizes Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron signed as she looked at them. She was tired of cow work in the dairy. She was tired of looking after a household of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and tired.

"This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. 3, Box 357, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: 'Everybody now says: "Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?" I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound.'

FLOOD WALL

Gulf Parish

Volume 20 Miles Wide Begins to Enter Grand Lake

at River's End

One Camp Alone Expected to Soon Have 20,000 as Rescue Goes On

NEW ORLEANS, May 23. (AP)—A wall of flood water almost twenty miles wide tonight was beginning to reach the upper extremities of Grand Lake in its movement to the Gulf of Mexico.

Grand Lake is situated at the mouth of the Atchafalaya River, splitting Iberia parish and with but a narrow neck of land separating it from the Gulf of Mexico.

Behind it stretched a lake 200 miles long from the south-central parishes along the gulf to the upper tier along the Atchafalaya river, its width varied from fifteen to fifty miles as it poured funnel-like from the Texas basin in Northwestern Louisiana, where it covered an area two parishes wide, through crevasses along the Bayou des Glaises, into the western Atchafalaya River basin, narrowing to a width of one parish.

WATER STILL RISES

The New Orleans Weather Bureau estimated today that the flood surface along the line between Boggs and Melville had attained a level of about forty-two feet above mean gulf level and that the water still was rising although at a diminished rate.

The flood waters are approximately 100 miles west of New Orleans on the west side of the Atchafalaya River; and the Bayou des Glaises breaks through, which they are rushing, are about 170 miles northwest of New Orleans and on the opposite side of the Mississippi River.

The population of the advancing waters scores of residents of the lower Atchafalaya were being rescued by tiny boats which ploughed through the current to reach them from house tops to which they had fled.

RUSH RESCUE WORK

Scores of persons, unable to remain in their homes, were living on levees where they had found safety after the first crush of the waters.

Along the upper extremity of the lake, planters were reassembling their teams, who had been forced to flee several weeks ago when breaks occurred in levees along the west bank of the Mississippi at Glascock and Milneville.

Immediately before the flood fleets of trucks were speeding over roads soon to be submerged, removing families, cowboys on cattle ponies from Western Louisiana and Texas ranches, sped here and there rounding up cattle and herding them to safety on high ground.

The population of refuge concentration camps was growing. More than 1000 had reached the camp at La Fayette during today and it was estimated that at the present rate of growth the camp will have 20,000 persons by the end of the week.

CALIFORNIA STUDENTS
MAY AID FLOOD SCHOOLS

SACRAMENTO, May 23. (AP)—William John Cooper, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, today announced that he will make a general appeal next September to the school children of California to aid Mississippi in rehabilitating its schools which were devastated by the recent floods.

Aid of California in this work recently was asked by W. F. Bond, State Superintendent of Education, in Mississippi.

Decision to make the appeal followed an exchange of communications between Cooper and Bond after Atty. Gen. Webb had ruled that a move would be legal inasmuch as it is not compulsory for students to participate, and most of the school officials expressed the belief that California children will be more than willing to lend their assistance. It has been set for September, because it is now too late in the school year to do anything constructive in this direction.

The method by which funds may be raised will be left to the students. They can, according to Cooper, either contribute direct or can arrange any sort of benefit they desire.

SIX HUNDRED THOUSAND
HOMELESS, SAYS HOOVER

BATON ROUGE (La.) May 23. (AP)—More than 600,000 persons are homeless as the result of the Mississippi flood, Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, said in an address here today.

"We must consider it an obligation of citizenship," he said, "to restore each individual flood sufferer again to the road to self-support. It is due to the suffering people that we give them assurance now. It can be done."

Speaking before the initial meeting of the Louisiana Flood Reconstruction Commission, Mr. Hoover said more than 800,000 of the total number of homeless persons have been dependent for their daily bread upon the kindness of their fellow-citizens. The number of homeless in Louisiana was given as 200,000.

Mr. Hoover said at his request and that of Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Farm Loan Board, Louisiana, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is undertaking "a campaign to fund from the bankers and industry of the North dollar for dollar with every dollar of capital subscribed to the finance corporations in the flooded States."

GIRL CRUELY BEATEN
ACCUSES STEPMOTHER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23. (Exclusive)—When 7-year-old Alberta Shaw collapsed in the second-grade classroom of the Fremont school today, investigation revealed that she was suffering from a fractured wrist and a mass of welts and bruises that virtually covered her body. She told police and Dr. F. L. Pearl, who treated her, that her stepmother had beaten her with a strap and her fist and had twisted her wrist and punched it. Mrs. Myra Shaw, the stepmother, when arrested denied the beatings, saying "She got all those bruises from being scratched by a cat." She was booked for unjustifiably punishing a minor and battery.

It also is learned that the British informally have indicated their desire to open negotiations with the Nanking government respecting a settlement of the outstanding questions, but so far there has been no action.

BRITISH ACT
ON SOVIETBreak Over Raid
Due Today

Baldwin and Chamberlain
Will Outline Agreed
Policy in Commons

Answer to Note May Cause
Moscow to Sever All
Trade Relations

LONDON, May 23. (Exclusive)—The future relationship between England and Russia will be disclosed in the House of Commons tomorrow afternoon when Home Secretary Sir Henry William Jowett-Hicks makes a statement on his findings in the raid on the Soviet trading corporation, Arco, Ltd. This statement is to be followed by a supplementary statement either by Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain or Prime Minister Baldwin.

Every probability exists tonight that tomorrow's events will result in a complete break. The statements in Commons may force the Russians to cease diplomatic relations themselves.

PLAN ON PARLEY

The general impression in all quarters today is that Mr. Baldwin, Sir Austen, the other moderates, though outnumbered by those seeking a clean break, succeeded in limiting immediate action to abrogating the present existing arrangements, at the same time sending a powerful note repudiating the Soviet claims of indemnity for the damage caused by the raid, and the claims of immunity of the delegates and making counter-charges against the Reds which will leave them little left but to sever relations.

Political strategy from a standpoint of purely domestic issues is believed to be largely determining the Cabinet's slow and cautious moves as the government does not want either to accuse the trade interests or to play into the hands of the Liberals. They are putting up a stiff fight in two by-elections in two weeks, which are expected to show the way political opinion is running between Laborites and the Conservatives over the trade's disputes bill.

CITY UNITED STATES

The argument of the government supporters against the traders opposing a break is that the United States does not hold diplomatic relations with Russia and yet it does a large trade.

The upshot of the situation tonight is that whether the next British note to Moscow is the last one depends on whether the Soviets are strong enough to permit themselves to be sufficiently angry to break off relations.

Ramsay MacDonald, Labor leader, wholessed his party from the Burnside today. "Sovereignty is weakness," he said.

Mr. MacDonald is expected in the House of Commons tomorrow afternoon.

CHARGES IN BRADY CASE
DISCLOSED

Bay City Bar Committee
Chairman Gives Details;
Accused Issues Denial

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23. (Exclusive)—Specific instances on which the San Francisco Bar Association charged "Dist. Atty. Matthew Brady charged" today were disclosed today through Henry R. Monroe, president of the association, and Attorney John O'Garra, chairman of the investigating committee.

One charge is that Brady paid $50 a month to Charles R. Holton, notary public, as an assistant district attorney, and collected $875 a month, ostensibly for Holton, for six months. Another is that Brady ostensibly paid Robert W. Burton, now under indictment for strike violence, $2000 over a period of sixteen months for work Burton did not perform and the records of the auditor's office are said to show that Burton did not sign receipts for the money during that period.

O'Garra declared "we have plenty of evidence to back our charge that Brady laid down on three court cases and that he willfully suppressed and frustrated the prosecution of Reginald E. McColligan, a money lender, upon a charge of forgery. The forgery charge was presented to the grand jury by Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph O'Connor, notwithstanding the fact that O'Connor had been the accused man's attorney for several years. The grand jury failed to return an indictment."

"Regardless of Brady's naive method of apportioning salaries among his employees as he sees fit," President Monroe said, "as an attorney he cannot be unimpaired that falsification of accounts in connection with public money is a criminal offense. He is not authorized to certify that an employee is receiving a certain salary unless he knows it."

The charge also is made that Brady protects and frequents tugging establishments and the committee spokesman said they can prove it when the time comes.

Brady has issued a categorical denial of all the charges.

Coast League Leaders Tangle With Hollywood Today at Wrigley Field in Opener

IVAN HOWARD

Local fans will have the privilege, if not pleasure, of looking at what the standings proclaim to be the best and worst clubs in this here Pacific Coast League at Wrigley Field this week when Ivan Howard's league-leading Oaks and the lowly Hollywood Stars tangle in a nine-game engagement.

The two extra contests take place next Monday, Memorial Day. It has not yet been decided whether the holiday bill will be put on in the form of a morning and afternoon game or as a doubleheader.

The Stars returned yesterday from San Francisco where they succeeded in losing the first six struggles and then finally winning the last game of the series in ten innings. All of which drove them considerably farther in the cellar.

They figure to sink a little deeper this week, with the Oaks supplying the force.

None other than the famous Mr. Sam Agnew will be sporting the uniforms of the Stars today when the athletes take the field. Agnew was given his release by the Oaks

YANK GOLFERS TRIM BRITISH

Newton and Haley Cop Tilts in Title Event

Tolley Steady in English Championship

Wind Hampers Contestants at Hoylake

HOYLAKES (Eng.) May 23. (P)—Five of the dozen American entrants survived the first round of the British amateur golf championship played today over the wind swept course of the Royal Liverpool Club.

Frank C. Newton of Brookline, Mass., interrupted a world-tour to beat one of Great Britain's longest hitters, Lieut.-Col. A. W. Tate of the Royal Ancient Club, 9 up.

An American darts, appeared in the youthful E. H. Haley of New York, former Williams College star, who eliminated H. A. Kay of Wiltshire by the same margin.

Harry Brower, an American resident of Paris; Douglas Grant, formerly of San Francisco, and now living in London, and Joshua Crane of Brookline, all continued into the second round, the latter by default. Brower defeated H. L. Holder of Bowden, 1 up, and Grant put out W. M. W. Sutton of Wiltshire Park, 3 and 2.

Only one casualty appeared in the ranking British list. Although the former champion, Cyril Tolley and Roger Wethered, came through their first test easily, Robert Harris, Scottish star, lost at the nineteenth hole to Robert Cant, a fellow-Scott, unknown outside of the boot factory where he works in his native village of Carquehou.

Another unknown, Norman Sutton, a young railroad worker from the Westchester Artisans Club, robbed Harold Hilton of his hundredth victory in British amateur play covering a period of twenty-five years. The veteran had turned in ninety-nine wins, but was stopped by Sutton, 4 to 3.

Haley showed stout golfing courage in winning from Kay after being 2 of the turn and 3 behind at the thirteenth. He won when he "got mad," at his loose play and tightened up to finish with three 4s. If Haley beats F. Williamson of Carlisle tomorrow, he probably will encounter Tolley Wednesday.

The remainder of the overseas contingent was less fortunate. W. Richards of Roslyn, N. Y., fell before W. A. Murray, West Hill club, 6 and 5. W. C. Hunt of Houston, Tex., met the stiffest opposition of any American in losing to R. H. E. De

TUNNEY LAUDS SHARKEY

Champion Says Jack is as Good a Fighter as He Ever Saw in Heavyweight Ranks

NEW YORK, May 23. (P)—Jack Sharkey is "as good a fighter," as Gene Tunney ever has seen in the heavyweights ranks, the world's heavyweight champion said today.

"Sharkey is fast, clever—a hitter. He's just the type you cannot lay back against, because he'll outpoint you. If you try to outpoint him, he's liable to knock you out. I consider him the outstanding challenger for my title."

The preliminary skirmishes with Germany, Holland, Belgium and France now being out of the way, Big Bill is face to face with the first of the four chief objectives that caused him to give up the drama and movies and try to outpoint him. He's liable to knock you out. I consider him the outstanding challenger for my title."

"No one ever will have a psychological superiority over Sharkey," Gene explained. "But in his subconscious mind possibly was the thought that Sharkey was the better man."

NEW YORKER IS DOPED TO WIN

Mexican Confident and Anything May Happen

Bert Carries Memory of Win Three Years Ago

Benny Hill and Ernie Owens Mix in Semi-Wind-up

BY KAY OWE

Bert Colima will carry a mental picture of a four-round battle with him when he climbs between the ropes at the Olympic tonight against the weaving, bobbing Dave Shade, once of San Francisco but now of New York City.

The picture is a memory of a fight which took place on July 15, 1924, at the old Vernon shed. In that fight, six rounds shorter than the one scheduled to o-night, Colima caught Shade with a sharp right hook and upset him almost the first punch.

The Mexican can do a lot with that memory or when he thinks he has the old Indian sign on an opponent the opponent has a 100 per cent fighter in front of him.

The dope points toward a Shade win, but in this fight it is just a likely to turn out to be an upset.

EXTREMELY CONFIDENT Colima is never given to counting his chickens before they are hatched, but he is extremely confident in this one.

"I came close to knocking Shade out three years ago and his weaving style didn't bother me then," says Bert.

"The way to fight a brawler is with hooks and I hope to be able to catch Shade and raise him right up out of his crouch. The closer he fights to the floor the less distance he will have to travel when I catch him."

Colima took Tiger Thomas, who was also a weaver fighter, and gave the colored boy quite a lesson. He had little difficulty in outboxing Joe Anderson, the boy who laid down such a terrific barrage against Leo Lonsad.

Shade's confidence in himself is the hardest obstacle in Colima's path to victory. To Shade a fight is a fight in which he cannot lose. "I whipped Mickey Walker just as I have whipped everybody else," Shade says. "They haven't always given me the decision, but that isn't because I didn't win."

THOUGHT HE WON "In my opinion I really whipped Colima in the two four-round fights we had out here. When I get into a crouch tonight Colima will think

ROCKNE AND INGRAM WAR ON CHANGE IN GRID RULES

NEW YORK, May 23. (P)—William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram and Knute Rockne, football coaches of the Navy and Notre Dame, respectively, were declared today by the New York World to be "in open revolt" against changes made in the rules since last year.

In telephone conversations with the World the coaches were quoted as objecting particularly to the rule encouraging the use of the lateral or backward pass, although both announced they would "make the best of it" and would not attempt to influence other coaches against it.

Under the new rules a lateral or backward pass, instead of becoming a free ball if incomplete, remains in possession of the passing side.

Reached at Jeffersonville, Ind., Coach Ingram said:

"The protection afforded for the use of the lateral pass is quite unnecessary and will hurt the game rather than help it. It is not elastic enough. We had a good game as it was and now the very fundamentals are affected."

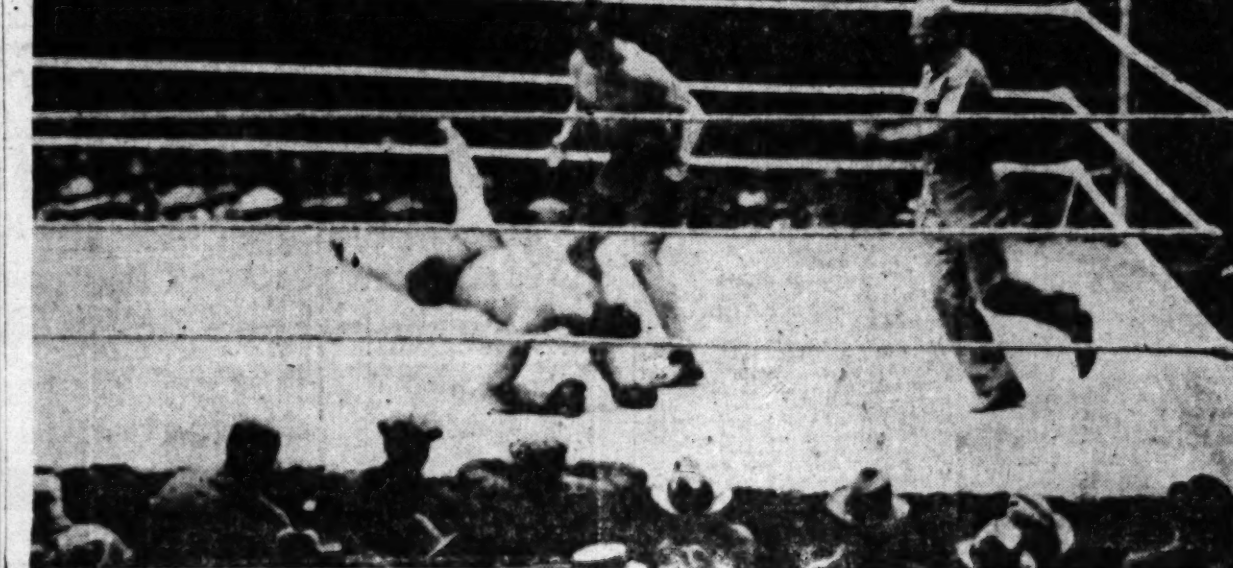

"It will take a long time to develop the lateral pass along sound lines and in the meantime it will create much discord and discontent."

"Naturally I will experiment with the play and no doubt use it, too, so far as it fits in with what I consider the fundamentals of the game. It is forced upon us, but that does not

GOLFERS HONOR WOMEN'S CHAMP

Mrs. Gregg Lifter, women's Southern California golf champ, will be Exhibit A at a dinner in her honor, scheduled for the California Country Club home, tomorrow evening. E. B. Hurst, club president, in charge of the affair, will also discuss plans for the annual club invitational for women, opening with an eighteen-hole qualifying round, Monday, June 5.

Sunday and should go nearly as well today.

A last-minute ruling found the championship right limited to players with a handicap of 3 or less, but with 23 to qualify, even Harry Baker, who claimed an 81, will probably get in the first bracket. There will be eight flights drawn today, to start match play tomorrow.

Players defeated in first-round matches and nonqualifiers will be eligible to play in the eighteen-hole medal consolation round Friday. Low scores yesterday were as follows:

15—An. Baker, 15. 16—W. W. Baker, 16. 17—W. W. Baker, 17. 18—W. W. Baker, 18. 19—W. W. Baker, 19. 20—W. W. Baker, 20. 21—W. W. Baker, 21. 22—W. W. Baker, 22. 23—W. W. Baker, 23. 24—W. W. Mrs. VORHEES LEADS AT LOS ANGELES

Mrs. H. M. Voorhees, with two legs on the trophy, yesterday scored an 85-6-78, to lead at the halfway mark in the annual Jim Long thirty-six-hole medal event that drew a fine entry of more than twenty-five Los Angeles women members, yesterday.

Other low scores at the end of the day were as follows:

15—Mrs. W. W. Campbell, 85-0-25. 16—Mrs. F. R. H. 86-5-81. 17—Mrs. Georgia Taylor, 111-0-81. 18—Mrs. William Hampe, 119-0-86. 19—Mrs. J. J. Quinn, 94-11-87. 20—Mrs. Roger Knorr, 101-14-87.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER
BILL HENRY

THE charm—as our old boss Harry Carr would say—about Bert Collina is his lovely lat-in inconsistency. We go to see Ace Hudkins for the reason that he's always the same—always boring in and making a go of it. We go to see Bert Collina for the opposite reason—because he never fights twice alike. He never disappoints us in this regard. If he has one of those fearless moments of his—yes, he has 'em occasionally—he is plenty good enough to give shade to a first-class plastering just as he did in the four-round days. If he has the other complex, it will be no good. Personally, we are hopeful that Collina is in a ferocious mood tonight for that would make it a real fight.

Funny how these eastern college athletes begin to come along like a streak just a couple of weeks previous to the I.C.A. That is one reason that you truly think it is all the more remarkable when one of our western teams captures the honors. It is all very well to say that our athletes have a big edge by reason of their long outdoor season but in some ways that is more of a disadvantage than an advantage. Our athletes reach their peak a month before the big eastern meet and then they have to be allowed to let down for a few days, after which they have to be brought right up to the razor.

net. Mrs. Harry Graham of Long Beach, with 101, led the Class C field. Mrs. T. J. Philtride, 111-26-85, won the second class low net. More than sixty women participated in the affair.

GOLF BENEFIT DECORATION DAY

The George Von Elm-Dor, Paul Hunter, vs. Ed Dudley-Willie Hunter, thirty-six-hole exhibition match for the Mississippi flood benefit, will be staged at the Hollywood Country Club next Monday, Decoration Day. Ernie Noon, in charge of the affair, has personally sold more than $400 worth of tickets. All proceeds will go to the local flood fund. The winning team in what promises to be a great match, will receive solid gold medals. The losers will receive sterling-silver replicas.

WRIGHT AND BOWEN MEET AT MOUNTAIN MEADOWS

Winning their way into the final match in the top flight of the tournament by winning their semifinal matches yesterday, Jack Bowen and Carlton Wright, joint holders of the Mountain Meadows amateur course record, meet next Sunday in the final round of the president's cup tournament. Wright had a stiff fight to win over Paul Parrish, 4 and 3, in the regulation eighteen holes. Wright and Parrish finished all square at the conclusion of the eighteen holes and had to play an additional nine to decide the winner. Jere Bowden won the directors' cup.

edge of condition again on top of a 3000-mile trip.

The easterners, on the other hand, while they do not have the lengthy outdoor season that we do before the big championship engagement, do succeed in reaching the I.C.A. meet right at their top form because it comes as the climax of their season and not as an anticlimax. They are only in fair shape at the Penna relays but they begin to pick up form immediately and their dual meets lead right up to the titanic climax of the collegiate season. That is why, on next Saturday we'll find easterners of whom little has been heard up to now, beating some of the best performers on our coast teams. So, be prepared.

This man Sharkey must be able to hit. After seeing few of the photographs of the Sharkey-Maloney battle were inclined to think that there must be something in this talk of genuine ability possessed by the little Lithuanian (Note—our geography is a little sketchy, but he is from some other place). We saw one picture where Mr. Maloney was in mid-air with his head and arms higher than his head and believe us, when they can take a 200-pounder and make him reverse ends like that with a single punch, they have to be able to hit. If Sharkey can hit, he will make a good match for any of the boys as he seems to be tough enough.

In the tournament yesterday by defeating M. G. Frantrop, 3 and 2, in the final match of that flight in thirty-six holes. Bowen will be playing next Sunday to retain possession of the president's cup, having won in sensational fashion last year. Lee Williams won the regular Saturday breakfast over the club course, finishing 1 up on par. F. W. Purling was second, finishing all square with par. A. W. McDermott and J. W. Morgan tied for third place, 2 down to par.

MRS. ELLIOTT COFS BRENTWOOD MEDAL

Mrs. L. B. Elliott shot through a lot of wind to score a 98 and win medal honors in the qualifying play for the women's club championship at Brentwood yesterday. Mrs. E. J. Erkes, 101-16-85, won low net. Matches will be played daily. Dave Ross of Rancho, threatening to become a second rival of Harry Ham and Willard George, in the matter of generosity, where women golfers are concerned, yesterday offered to be host of a by-crowd where none other than Mrs. Francis Smith and Mrs. William (Sugar) Carter, during the last few months and if all winners start traveling, but may be they won't. Oh, yes, the Brentwood and its next Monday and is open to all women members, quality, then match play with handicaps.

Famous Track Trophy Again Travels East

PHILADELPHIA (Pa.) May 23.—The highly prized intercollegiate A.A.A.A. track and field championship trophy, held by the University of Southern California, has just completed its tenth trip across the continent.

Edson D. Bronberger of Pennsylvania, manager of the fifty-first intercollegiate, title meet to be held here this week, has just received the $3000 cup which has been forwarded from Los Angeles.

Since 1921 this much-sought-after trophy has traveled more than 80,000 miles in its trips too and from the Pacific Coast. The University of California was custodian in 1921, '22 and '23, returning it to the East for each following championship meet. Yale managed to win the title in 1924, but Southern California came through with a championship team in 1925 and again last year.

SPEED KINGS LEAVE FOR BANNING RACE

The last of the local speed kings have departed for Banning, where on Monday afternoon, Memorial Day, they will engage the best of the eastern drivers in the final race of the year to determine the official world's dirt-track champion. The races are expected to be the most sensational ever staged in this part of the country. American Legion officials, sponsors of the races, are meeting tonight to complete the final details.

BUD TAYLOR TO MAKE ONE FIGHT THIS TRIP

Bud Taylor will make but one fight on the Coast this trip, according to his manager, Eddie Long. The Terre Haute bantam king and his manager arrived here last Saturday and Bud took his first workout yesterday at the Manhattan gymnasium. Taylor is here to box Chick Suggs, New Bedford featherweight, who came from tonight at John J. Doyle's Grand-avenue place.

Billy Grimes, Australian featherweight, returned from San Francisco, where he has been visiting for the last week. He is working at the Manhattan, also.

HAROLD SAMPSON WINNER OVER FRY

SAN JOSE, May 23. (P)—By a score of 5 to 4, Harold Sampson of the Burlingame Country Club defeated Mark Fry of the Lake Chabot (Oakland) municipal course, in the finals for the Northern California Pro Golf Association championship. The match was played over the course of the San Jose Country Club.

OPEN GOLF TEST JUNE 6

Watrous Disqualified as Officials Name Date of Sectional Qualifying Play

NEW YORK, May 23. (P)—A record-breaking entry of 800 or more golfers, including virtually every ranking professional in the country, will compete in the sectional qualifying rounds for the national open championship at Oakmont, June 14-16, it was disclosed today by the United States Golf Association.

The entries closed tonight at midnight, and although no official count was available, it was estimated they would exceed by more than 100 the record list of 694, established last year.

Bill Mehlhorn, MacDonald Smith and George Von Elm were among the last to enter in an eleventh-hour rush that swamped officials. Al Watrous, a member of America's Ryder Cup team that meets Great Britain in the international matches, was disqualified from entering because of a technicality in failing to submit an officially attested score card. His entry was received too late for this mistake to be rectified.

Bobby Jones, defending champion, and the first thirty low scorers in last year's championship, all have first entries and are exempt from qualifying. There will be only 111 places open to those who are competing in the sectional qualifying rounds of the regular tour. The list, thirty-one are reserved for last year's low scorers and eight more are held open for the British Ryder Cup team. The United States Golf Association, however, may declare one place flexible to favor one or more of the smaller qualifying districts. It was learned tonight.

The sectional qualifying rounds, thirty-six holes of medal play, will be held June 6, in the following seven districts: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, Atlanta, Dallas, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle. The number of qualifiers for each district will be determined by the championship committee in a few days.

Jess Sweetser, British amateur champion, who has limited his competition at home this year because of recent recovery from a long illness did not enter.

SENIOR STARS TO INVADE ENGLAND

NEW YORK, May 23. (P)—A representative team of fourteen men was named today by the United States Seniors' Golf Association to go to England for the first international seniors' championship this summer. English and Canadian teams also are entered.

Frederick Shure of the national links of America, winner of the United States seniors' title in 1923 and 1925, was made captain of the team which includes Frederick S. Wheeler, Apawamis Club, Rye, N. Y.; Joshua Crane, Brooklyn Square Club, Brooklyn, Pa.; Alexander Havel, Old Elm Club, Chicago; W. E. Truesdell, Garden City (N. Y.) Golf Club, winner of the United States title in 1917 and 1918; C. D. Cooke, Arcola Country Club, Arcola, N. J.; J. L. Woodward, Cherry Hills Country Club, Denver, Colo.; A. B. Jenks, Wollaston Golf Club, Montclair, Mass.; Jerome A. Peck, Apawamis; Robert C. Mitchell, Swaney Club, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Charles S. Strout, Bideford, Me., and Dr. Warren S. Adams, Garden City Golf Club.

The matches will be played in the Sunningdale links, England, July 7, with a set of foursomes the previous day. Veterans will captain the English and Canadian teams. E. H. Blackwell, who opposed Walter Travis in the finals of the 1904 British amateur championship when Travis won, will captain the Englishmen while George S. Lyon, winner of the Canadian seniors' title again and again, will lead the Dominion team.

Davies Turned Back by Casey in Net Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23. (P)—Ray Casey, who played in Europe last year representing the United States today turned back James Davies, former national intercollegiate champion, in the Pacific Coast championship tennis tournament. Davies was the eighth seeded player in the men's singles. The score was 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Alan Harrington of Stanford University lost to Sherman Lockwood in three straight sets, 6-4, 4-2, after he had won a first-round match on his first day of play. His teammate Lionel Owsen was victorious over Stanley Alquist, 8-6, 7-6, 6-0. Both Stanford boys were trails tired from a quick trip from Oregon where they played Saturday.

William M. Johnston had an easy win in the third round. His victim was Mervyn Griffin, a southerner who plays a tricky game that bothers most players. The score, 6-2, 6-3, shows Griffin's game was easy for the former national champion.

Harry McKee of Stockton, paired with Kenneth May, lost in the second round of the men's doubles to Mike Laine and Herbert Robinson of Oakland, 10-8, 2-6, 7-5. Casey and Phil Neer defeated Howe Hancock of San Diego and John Doss of Santa Monica, 6-4, 6-4, and Paul Hardeman of Los Angeles, paired with Neil Brown of San Francisco won from Kenneth Wise and Pack Petty, 6-4, 6-2.

The most interesting match in the women's singles was between Peggy James of L. A. and Rose Marie Brun of San Francisco. Miss Brun won, 2-6, 6-1, 7-5, but only after making an up-hill fight.

BICYCLE RACES ON PROGRAM HERE

A series of bicycle races for both juniors and seniors has been arranged by the Boosters Club, which will be staged at the Manchester Playground on Decoration Day for the purpose of arousing interest in the old wheel sport. Seven events are on the program, which will be featured by a five-mile handicap race for both juniors and seniors. INDIA TIRES

Endure Desert Heat!

To reach many of the pleasure places which California vacationists must drive through desert country. The intense heat and dryness of the desert wears ordinary tires, resulting in wear.

The new Improved India Tires, with "True Blue" Heat Resistant Tubes, are constructed to withstand these most destructive elements.

In the desert country, over rough roads, in congested city streets—Indians are equally dependable. And because Los Angeles motorists meet all these road conditions on their trips—explains the demand for Indians here.

Sponsored by Nelson & Price, Inc., these sturdy tires are guaranteed for tire service.

Speculators for Advance Overcome Opposition

Fifty Issues Set Record Peaks for Year

Selective Group of Rail Feature Activity

NEW YORK, May 23. (AP)—Speculators for the advance again overcame all opposition in today's stock market, lifting fifty issues to new peak prices for the year, or longer, with gains running from fractions to nearly 12 points. The only check to the upward sweep of prices came shortly after mid-day when a flurry of selling followed the marking up of the call money rate from 4 to 4 1-2 percent, but offerings were well absorbed and final quotations, as a rule, were around the highest of the day.

Stiffening of the call money rate presumably reflected the calling out about $26,000,000 in loans to repay the deficit shown in last Saturday's clearinghouse statement and to prepare for the usual heavy month-end demand for funds. The weekly statement of brokers' loans by the Federal Reserve Bank showed an increase of $15,938,000, which was not considered unusual, in view of the sensational advance in many high-

a Syndicate
Based on Bed-Rock Value
Under Expert Management

SYNDICATION of well-located land near Los Angeles—when bought at right prices and syndicated, subdivided and sold by competent management—has been, and will continue to be, the source of huge profits to investors.

We offer participation in a compact tract of over 4,000 acres in prosperous Pomona Valley which presents every profit-insuring element.

This land is planned and ready for subdivision NOW. Every acre is under intensive cultivation and served by modern irrigation and drainage. Four paved boulevards bring it within one and one-half hours of Seventh and Broadway by easy driving. It is surrounded by fine estates, and highly productive citrus and walnut groves.

The development plan provides for subdivision and sale IMMEDIATELY, of a highly profitable townsite, homesites, country estates, and small farms. Electricity and gas are on the property now. Streets are laid out. Development cost is reduced to a minimum. Ready marketability is assured.

This syndicate will pay seven per cent on invested funds until every dollar has been repaid. Thereafter ALL PARTICIPANTS SHARE ALIKE IN PROFITS. Participating units are $100 each. You may buy one or as many as you wish.

This land was bought at a price permitting its profitable sale materially under prevailing prices in the district. It should move quickly. Years of successful experience in syndicate subdivision and our intimate knowledge of this property support our expectation that it will return above one hundred per cent profit to participants.

For information regarding Alexander Hamilton Institute and its 8% Cumulative Preferred Stock, we refer to the letter dated May 12, 1927 (copies of which should be obtained from the undersigned) from Dr. Jeremiah W. Jenks, President, some of the items of which he has briefly summarized as follows:

HISTORY: The Alexander Hamilton Institute, a New Jersey Corporation, was founded in 1909 and has risen to a position of prominence and respect in the educational field, its services covering the entire United States and through subsidiaries reaching Canada, England and Australia.

Men of prominence who comprise the staff and contribute to the courses of the Institute include the following:

Percy H. Johnson, LL.D., President of the Chemical National Bank of New York.
Dexter S. Kimball, A. B., M. E., LL. D., Dean of the College of Engineering, Cornell University.
Jeremiah W. Jenks, Ph.D., LL. D., Research Professor of Government and Public Administration, New York University.
Edward W. Beatty, Chairman of the Board, Canadian Pacific Railway.
Herbert S. Collins, Vice-President, United Cigar Stores Company.
Oscar Cooper, Member of Firm, Shearson, Hamill and Company.
Jackson Johnson, Chairman of the Board, International Shoe Company.
Arthur W. Thompson, Formerly Vice-President, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; President, the Philadelphia Company of Pittsburgh.
Bruce Barton, General Publicity.
Leo Greendlinger, M. C. S., C. P. A., Financial and Business Statements.
John G. Jones, Sales Management.
Walter E. Laguerre, Ph.D., Investments.
Mac Martin, Advertising Campaigns.
Frank L. McVey, Ph.D., LL.D., President University of Kentucky.

BUSINESS: The Alexander Hamilton Institute has grown from a modest capital at the inception to a position where net tangible assets exceed $5,250,000, and the business has shown great stability of earnings and volume irrespective of current business conditions. During business depression the enrollment has shown a tendency to increase rather than decline. The Institute has a high credit standing.

EARNINGS: Net profits for the calendar year 1926, amounted to $491,428.69, at the rate of over $33.00 per share, or more than four times the preferred dividend requirements. Average net earnings for five years have been over $44,000.00, equivalent to over $30.00 per share or nearly five times dividend requirements on the outstanding Preferred Stock.

ASSETS: Certified Balance Sheet (as of April 30, 1927) discloses net tangible assets after all reserves for depreciation, credit losses and amortization, of about $357 per share on Preferred Stock outstanding. The substantial character of these assets cannot be passed without comment. Real estate and buildings are valued by independent appraisers at more than $2,500,000, or at the rate of over $140 per share for the outstanding preferred stock, although they are carried on the books of the Institute at a much lower figure.

Net current assets are more than $231 per share on the Preferred Stock outstanding. The Institute shows a current ratio of 4 to 1.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of the previously unissued balance of the preferred stock, amounting to 2,160 shares, constituting this offering, will reimburse the Institute for capital expenditures in connection with the new Modern Merchandise Course.

SOAP AND HANDBRUSH
A new toilet idea is a piece of soap and a handbrush combined. The brush is imbedded in the interior of the cake of soap and the soap is applied in the ordinary manner using one side and the cake is then turned over and the brush made use of. It is a French idea.

The directors of the association are the Commercial Club of Los Angeles already known for its record in opposing the three propositions. The committee which will be formed to oppose the propositions is the Los Angeles Protective Association and this committee is the first of its kind in the city in opposition to the propositions. LAWYER-SON OF OUTLAW REMINISCES

Jesse James Remembered as Indulgent Father by Newly Made Bar Member

Whatever might be said about Jesse James, the notorious outlaw, he was always kind to his family, according to his son Jesse E. James, Los Angeles, who was admitted to law practice in California yesterday by the Second District Court of Appeal, Division One.

Mr. James last night recalled a few childhood memories of his father, who was killed in St. Joseph, Mo., when his son was 7 years of age. He remembers his father as a tall blond man with close-cut hair, who was always smooth shaven except in the latter years of his life, when he grew a beard and moustache.

There is one outstanding incident by which I remember father, Mr. James said. "We were all very fond of dogs in Missouri. Just two weeks before his death he was visiting his mother at the old home in Clay county, about seventy miles from St. Joe, and he got hold of a fox terrier puppy which he thought I would like for a pet.

"That night he rode the seventy miles with the dog under his arm through a hostile country, although there were thousands of dollars' reward on his head, in order that I might have my pet. In my mind that confirms what my mother and my sister always said, that he was wonderful to his family.

"Two weeks later father was killed. All our household effects were sold at auction and the dog was sold, too. My mother gave me the $15 which the dog brought to console me for my loss, but it didn't do any good."

USURY INQUIRY IN JULIAN CASE

City Prosecutor Discloses Secret Investigation
Federal Receiver Asked for A. C. Waggy & Co., Inc.

Lewis Before Grand Jurors; Denies He Profited

An investigation of the asserted usurious rates of interest charged the Julian Petroleum Corporation for loans, which indirectly were secured with having brought about the overreaching of 3,000,000 shares of preferred stock to meet the interest, was announced yesterday by City Prosecutor Lickley.

Mr. Lickley revealed that his office for the past two weeks has had the investigation under way secretly and he said that reports to him indicated that in the past eighteen months $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 was collected from the corporation in the form of usurious interest.

Meanwhile the scope of court proceedings in the Julian affair grew wider and upon petitions of Samuel Shortridge, Jr., and E. T. Cochran, an accountant, recusers of Waggy & Co., Inc. stock and bond brokerage house. The principal owner of the firm is S. C. Lewis, resigned president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation and central figure in the present financial tangle.

Another petition was filed by Attorney Walter H. Hittman, representing the broker, requesting the recusal of Lewis, being the principal owner of the brokerage concern, and charged indebitness in handling the affairs of the company while involved in the Julian entanglement.

The other, an involuntary petition, was filed by Attorney Arnold C. Lackenbach, representing Robert Van Hook, and charged indebitness of the brokerage concern to a San Francisco advertising agency.

The latter petition declared the Waggy concern insolvent with $450,000 worth of preferred stock and $350,000 worth of common stock of the Julian corporation. The petition asserted the Waggy brokerage house had other assets and the receiver was sought to protect it in the Julian tangle.

Locally, the county grand jury resumed its investigation of the affair and a federal inquiry to determine if the mails were used in marketing any of the asserted overvalued stock also was proceeding on documents and records of the company recently seized under the orders of U. S. Atty. McNabb.

Noted Sisters Who May Be Brides

United We Stand—Divided We Fall

So say Rosetta and Vivian Duncan, who may go to altar in Hollywood shortly. Rosetta admits her engagements, and pact provides that, if one sister weds, the other must become bride in double wedding.

ROSETTA DUNCAN TO MARRY

Admits That She's Engaged to Wed Hollywood Man; Sister May Be Bride at Same Time

Rosetta Duncan, elder of the famous Duncan sisters, yesterday admitted her engagement to William Bert of the Mack Sennett studios and at the same time revealed that a double wedding with her sister Vivian as the second bride may be held in Hollywood within a few months.

While Miss Duncan at first denied the rumored engagement, she declared she planned a formal announcement within a week, following the release of a motion picture the sisters have just finished.

It was while admitting her own engagement that Rosetta revealed a pact of long existence between the two sisters which forbids one to marry without the other following suit, and that a double wedding must mark their entry into a new and untrodden field—matrimony.

"I positively will not be married without Vivian," Rosetta declared, "and then in the next breath stated that the wedding would probably take place the last of the year."

Just as will lead the younger of the sisters to the altar Vivian refused to say. While she was denying the proposed double wedding Nils Astor, who rumor has it is to become Vivian's husband, arrived at the Hollywood home of the sisters.

EBELL VOTES WITHDRAWAL

Decision Almost Unanimous for Secession From California Federation of Women's Clubs

BY MYRA NYE
"At last we are free, unhampered to carry on our philanthropic and civic work for which our club is noted," said Mrs. William Read, president of Los Angeles Ebells, following final action of the club yesterday to withdraw from the California Federation of Women's Clubs. "We have been sorry over and over again while we were members of the Federation and glad only once when we were out before. But that glad was all the time."

The action of this influential club of the districts put together and yet could be outvoted in delegation, in committee and on the State board by a six-to-one vote. At the same time this district paid more than half of the dues and taxes of the federation. Mrs. Read repeatedly pointed out the inequalities in the various called sessions in the district for the discussion of the situation.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr
Selling for Aviator Lindbergh, the French people did a good stroke of business for themselves.

If they had given him the cold deal and the kisses promised for him by wise-guy Paris correspondents, France would have paid heavily for it in the end. It would have been a wound that never would have been healed.

APPLAUSE!
No people ever lived as a nation who would react more quickly to kindness—or to unkindness. We may as well be frank about it; we like to have a fuss made about us.

OUR MOTTO
The unofficial motto of the United States is: "You can have either a handshake or a wallop on the nose; we have a lot of both on hand."

TOUCHING THE BUTTON
President Coolidge pushed the electric button that opened the new Carquest bridge span. Also the button, that started a newspaper plant in Toledo, and I don't know how many more.

If his popularity as a button-pusher increases, he will have to play them like a piano.

COUNTRY ESTATES
A phase of American life that has crept up on us in America without our knowing it. The invitations to President Coolidge for his summer vacation reveal that we have arrived at the country estate phase.

The bleak and dismal fiction of the Middle West has taught us to think of the prairie States as stretches of corn fields populated chiefly by worn-out farmers' wives with ague and chilblains.

The town and Wisconsin country places that have been offered to the President must be among the most alluring spots on earth—lakes, motor yachts, forests of trees, great country houses.

OUR WONDERLAND
That is a phase just starting in Southern California. Before another ten years have passed everyone who can afford it will have a town house, where they sleep nights and do their heavy telephoning, and a place in the mountains where you can get in touch with earth currents that revive the life forces.

LIKE SWITZERLAND
Right here at our doors is a wonderland that is neglected. All through the mountains of Inyo and Mono counties are lakes without number, and scenery as sublime that it fairly overwhelms you.

The government leaves this land as prizes that sound like a tip in a waiter.

Wallace Berry, the movie star, has leased a whole island in a lake so beautiful that it makes the glories of Switzerland look like a chicken yard.

THE "WHY" OF FASHION
Fashions have deep roots. I dare say, if the real cause of the new craze for color were known it would be found to be due to the fact that the secret of aniline dyes was lost to Germany as a result of the World War.

BOULEVARD TO BE IMPROVED
The Board of Supervisors yesterday voted to spend $100,000 on the improvement of Long Beach Boulevard from the northern boundary of Compton to the flood control channel, San Pedro. Supervisor Beatty said that $140,000 would be taken from the highway maintenance and general funds and $50,000 from the good roads fund.

RADIO SCHEDULE CHANGED TODAY
New Wave Lengths for All of Country Ready
Stations Get Exclusive License in District to Go into Effect on June 1

W. R. RALPH L. POWER
The Federal Radio Commission today announced that it has decided to change the wave lengths of all radio stations in the United States to the metric system of measurement, which will be in effect on June 1, 1927.

The commission's decision is based on the fact that the metric system is the standard of measurement for all scientific work, and it is necessary for radio stations to conform to this standard in order to be able to communicate with each other.

The commission's decision will affect all radio stations in the United States, including those in the United States, Canada, and Mexico. The new wave lengths will be in meters, and they will be rounded off to the nearest meter.

The commission's decision will also affect the frequency of the radio waves. The new frequencies will be in kilocycles, and they will be rounded off to the nearest kilocycle.

The commission's decision is a significant step towards the standardization of radio communication, and it will make it easier for radio stations to communicate with each other.

bers of the Commission appear to be hand-picked by the interests.

After the smoke of battle has cleared, however, the stations that are satisfied can continue with a certain assurance of more or less permanence while those that do not care to accept the edict without a struggle will have plenty of opportunity to protest to the Commission.

The new wave lengths are due to clear the air of most everything except static, and a new world of radio will be ready for exploration.

The temporary permit system certainly did good work in several districts and the national frequency assignments will make it possible for the 694 stations to remain on the air but with new shifts in channels, drastic power cuts and splitting time in the case of certain transmitters.

TEMPORARY PERMITS
These new licenses are sixty-day affairs and it is understood they will be renewed from time to time but no long-term licenses will be signed until it is reasonably certain that no more shifts will be advisable.

The members of the commission are rather definite that newcomers to the broadcast field will not be licensed. But in the case of a comparatively few stations, that were ready to operate but were not licensed prior to February 23, permission to broadcast may be granted after the present stations are readjusted to their permanent channels.

Unquestionably the new scheme of broadcast traffic regulation will create an entirely new order of things, and the radio tourist will find many interesting and settling routes to try out. The old log books will have to be discarded and new dial recordings listed, for scores of old-time favorites will have new assignments, and will come on different points of the dial.

At present there are twenty-two stations on the 277-meter wave length, twenty on 254 meters, and nineteen on 300, but it appears that KDKA and WDCB are the only sets operating on exclusive channels.

NEW EXCLUSIVE
Those who have given some study to the possible changes of the commission believe that a few of the old reliable will operate on exclusive wave lengths within their cities or States under the new channels to be announced today, but that even fewer will have a nationally exclusive channel. Many stations, large and small, will have to share time if close together, and they will find it necessary to share wave lengths if they are far enough apart to operate simultaneously without interfering.

The new scheme, to be announced today and adopted June 1, will leave the distribution of stations by States practically unchanged in the new and virtually permanent scheme.

Illinois has sixty-one stations; Texas has fifty-one; Pennsylvania, forty; Ohio, thirty-one; and New Jersey, twenty. Other States follow with decreasing numbers, ending with a single station each for Delaware, South Carolina and Wyoming. Nevada is the only State without an active station. Reno people have asked for a construction permit, and there is every reason to believe that the commission in time will give them favorable consideration.

STATIONS BY CITIES
Analysing radio centers of perhaps 100 miles radius shows that New York City is at the head of the list with eighty stations in its immediate vicinity; then comes Chicago with sixty-eight broadcasters and in each district nineteen channels will be utilized.

Other districts show: Boston, thirty-two; Baltimore, thirty; Cleveland, twenty-seven; Los Angeles, twenty-six; Detroit, twenty-three; and Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Omaha with twenty-one each.

In the metropolitan area of the cities the situation is somewhat different, and Chicago ranks first with twenty-five, New York having fourteen; thirteen each for Philadelphia and Seattle; Los Angeles and Portland have eleven each; and St. Louis with eight.

All the suspense will be ended today. Radio listeners have not lost any sleep pondering the matter and they will be good-natured whatever may come. Broadcast officials, however, have been on edge day and night for a week or two. They will accept the commission's decision however, with good grace, and those who do not like the assignment will find the best way out of it will be to take what they can get, try it out for a couple of weeks, and then appeal through official channels if they believe their station to be unjustly discriminated against.

BANDITS IN KIDNAPING ATTEMPT

Shot Fired at Manager of Kress Store as Effort to Push Him Into Car Fails

Three bandits—only one of them taking an active part, however—made an unsuccessful attempt late yesterday to kidnap C. E. Knepper, manager of the S. H. Kress store at 4601 South Broadway, as he was on his way to the bank with a satchel containing $700 in currency.

Knepper was waiting for a street car at the corner of Forty-seventh street and Broadway, he told police, when suddenly he was pushed from the rear toward an automobile that was parked near the curb. As he lost his balance, Knepper's arms flailed about in wild, futile fashion and he was unable to get his feet under him. He fell flat on his back, and the bandits fled.

The armed bandit then jumped into the coupe where two companions awaited him and sped west on Forty-seventh street.

Knepper was able to give only a meager description of any of the men.

KIWANISANS TO HEAR TUTTLE

Mr. Tuttle will give some anthropological information which he will tie up with modern industry and business in a practical way. William P. Chadwick will be chairman of the day.

THE OLD FLAG

This year Flag Day runs into a week and will extend from June 8 to 14. This is because the year marks the 150th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the national ensign. The banner has fluttered in the breeze for a century and a half, but it still looks fresh and unfaded. There must be good stuff in it.

WOULD FORMALIZE VAMPS

There was a great round of applause by the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs when Mrs. John W. Fiske of Washington advocated the passage of a Federal law providing prison sentences for persons convicted of alienating the affections of married persons. If this law went into effect it might square the triangle.

DAVID CROCKETT

Plans for the recognition of the services of Davy Crockett to his country are being considered by Texas officials. Col. David Crockett was a member of Congress from Tennessee before the Mexican War. He was one of the six who survived the merciless slaughter at the Alamo, but he was shot the same day by order of the Mexican commander. One by one the old heroes of America are being honored in enduring memorials, and it is fitting that the memory of Crockett should be preserved with that of the rest.

FALSE PRETENSES

The Soviet leaders in Russia now publicly proclaim that lack of capital is the most characteristic feature of the present economic situation in their country. If they are true to their faith they should groat rather than grieve. They gained power on the assumption that they would put capital out of business. They did it and made a rather thorough job of it. They should groat with pride over their achievement. Instead of that they are making overtures of all kinds and begging capital to please come back.

THE SCHOOL FILMS

In more than a dozen large American cities the Boards of Education are about to make more extended experiment in the use of motion pictures in connection with regular school courses in the fourth to seventh grades. More than forty special films have been prepared for this adventure and they are especially directed to the illustration of lessons in geography, the elementary sciences and hygiene. So far experience shows that the student mind is more readily reached through the eye than by any other manner. As an educational agency the films are still in their infancy. The teacher has no difficulty in holding the attention of the pupil while the picture is being unfolded.

AMERICA HELPS

Speaking of Australia's new hand-made capital it is well to remember that it is chiefly the creation of a Chicago architect. He provided the planning program for the entire capital district and superintended the work for seven years. There was world-wide competition for a capital-city plan and the drawings of W. Burley Griffin of Illinois won the first prize. The new city of Canberra has its beautiful group of government buildings on the south bank of the Molonglo River, while the civic center and business district are on the opposite side. Handsome bridges connect the two divisions and not a building can be erected in the district except in conformity with established plans and regulations. Canberra was virtually built in the wilderness. Thousands of trees were set out. There are parks, golf courses, a polo ground and an aviation field. Artificial lakes have been established and tennis courts are numerous.

THE RED MILL

Much of the picturesque repute of Holland was based upon the windmills that filled the landscape. But in late years changed conditions affecting the water supply have made many of them unimportant and unnecessary. It is declared that in the last five years more than half of the nation's windmills have been dismantled. Artists from other countries came to Holland to paint Arcadian scenery in which the old mill and its wondrous sweeps held the center of the picture. The thousands of New World tourists who visited Holland each year were largely drawn by the same visual lure. Now the Dutch burghers are getting a bit worried about the change. They have been taking a census and celebrating a special windmill week. They have found that in the last four years more than 1600 ancient mills have been virtually uprooted and they now propose to preserve those that survive. The next farmer who essays to demolish his venerable windmill will be waited upon by a citizens' committee and induced to withhold his hand. They are held to be a national asset and must be patriotically retained.

HENRY E. HUNTINGTON

Henry E. Huntington, the man whose visions, alike in industry and art, always came true, has passed, and yet he is only beginning to live. He has left behind him a shrine that more will visit every year than make the pilgrimage to Stratford-on-Avon. A legend will attach to his name, a legend formed about the great library and art galleries on the hills of San Marino. Those treasures will remain intact when the last of the lines of railroad he builded will have been abandoned to make way for a new form of transportation—in fact for the education and entertainment of his heirs.

And who are the heirs that become the possessors and custodians of such rare treasures of literature and art? "The people of the world, for educational purposes and for historical research." The public is the benefactor. A trust fund has been established; and there is a board of trustees under whose supervision the library and galleries will always be open to the public.

On the hills of San Marino stands the shrine that he dedicated "to the people of the world," and that the people of the world will in turn dedicate to his memory. Rare are the citizens, under any flag or sky, who have performed an equally eminent public service.

Millions were necessary to make such a donation possible. Mr. Huntington made these millions in industry. They are the reward he received for the faith he showed thirty years ago in the future of Los Angeles.

He heeded not the voices of the doubting Thomases. He extended his suburban lines into virgin territory where the traffic for the first year at least would hardly pay the wages of the motorman and conductor on a car. When the New York bankers hesitated to purchase further bonds for the necessary construction work he crossed the Atlantic and interested a group of Belgian capitalists.

Henry E. Huntington was always building, always increasing his stake in Southern California. He became interested in hydroelectric enterprises; he bought thousands of acres of suburban property. He risked his fortune and his future on the future of Los Angeles, city and county; and when he won he used many of the millions so acquired to purchase what became the finest private library in the world and the finest collection of masterpieces of eighteenth-century British art.

Others have made millions in Southern California; but no other has dedicated so many of those to the public service. Mr. Huntington was one of those who held that the educational—the cultural—development of Southern California should keep pace with the industrial development. In his vision beauty joined hands with utility. As a business man he was not ashamed to be known as a lover of the fine arts.

He insisted that, for the coming generation, the best was hardly good enough. He held that, to read the future, one must first read the past. He was at times lavish with his purchases; but it was a lavishness he bestowed on "the people of the world;" and by reason of their location the greatest beneficiaries of the Huntington library and art galleries will be the people of Southern California.

During the last ten years of his life Mr. Huntington limited his industrial activities in order to bring to a fruition his dream of the heritage that he would leave by bequest to the public when he passed. In the business and financial world he will be long remembered for his integrity, his courage and his sagacity. They saw communities grow because he willed them to grow. He planted towns as others plant vines; and those he planted he did not leave unattended.

Perhaps the good God sent Henry E. Huntington to us, along with our other blessings. Huntington Park, Huntington Beach, Huntington Lake—how many parts of California bear the ineffaceable impress of his name! But greatest of all is that shrine of education and art in the midst of the live oaks on the hills of San Marino.

PECULIAR BOOK-KEEPING

Superior Court Judge Hartley Shaw's criticism of the Power Bureau's methods of book-keeping, by which the bureau mingles power earnings and bond funds voted by the people, has focused attention on the devices used by the officials in charge of this $27,000,000 enterprise to show that it is a profit-making enterprise.

For example, the last audit of the Power Bureau for the year ending June 30, 1926, neglected to set out that the business of the bureau for the year ending June 30, 1926, meant a loss to the taxpayers of $1,123,715 in taxes, of which the bureau pays none. It has outstanding $32,000,000 of tax-free bonds, meaning a loss of $300,000 in public revenue to be made up by other taxpayers.

The Power Bureau, in October 11, 1920, had its obedient City Council raise the municipal electric rates 12 1/2 per cent. Other utilities have since lowered their rates. The Edison Company reduced its rates 14 per cent last week and is serving small, sparsely settled communities adjacent to Los Angeles at the same rates being charged in the city. The Power Bureau has not reduced its rates to the prewar level. The Power Bureau purchases 60 per cent of its current from the Southern California Edison Company and that company's bill for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, showed a reduction in the rate charged the city, which lowered the city's bill by $911,965. This rate reduction was not passed on to the people of Los Angeles by the Power Bureau.

At the city election on June 7 the Power Bureau is seeking, through Propositions 3 and 4, authority to establish an unregulated political power monopoly in Los Angeles by taking over the $40,000,000 electric properties of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation and a $500,000 parcel of city land at the harbor for the site of a steam plant.

NO MORE SLAVERY

The League of Nations has been able to bring about the abolition of slavery in Baluchistan, where traces of this ancient form of servitude remained. The League is also breaking up the nests of the white slavers in all sections of the world and in this work has the active aid and support of many Americans. This country is identified with all the moral and spiritual operations of the League, although still remaining aloof in responsible membership.

A HERITAGE OF SYMPATHY

One of the happiest and most touching phrases in the message sent by President Coolidge in reply to that of President Doumergue in which he congratulated America's Chief Executive upon the success of the Lindbergh flight across the Atlantic was that in which our President referred to the manner in which aviation brings us closer to France and "must increase our heritage of sympathy and understanding."

"Our heritage of sympathy" Here is a phrase that calls to mind most poetically a potent factor in the rise of this great republic, and yet it is one that those of the present generation are prone to forget. It is well to keep alive in the hearts of Americans whose forefathers might not have been able to establish as soon as they did the independence for which they were fighting but for the sympathy and aid of France, what this heritage means to us of the present day.

In recognition of that sympathy and aid Gen. Pershing bared his head before the tomb of one of Washington's most trusted commanders—a Frenchman who fought with us in the cause of liberty and said simply "Lafayette, we are here." And in assisting France and its allies in the great European conflict we further acknowledged our heritage of sympathy and the debt of gratitude we owed to the Gallic race.

Of late there have come from France reports of unpleasant reflections upon us because of our attitude with relation to the French war debts, and on our own side unthinking people have retorted with language fully as unpleasant, but in the great heart of France, as in that of America, there has been no real change in the high regard Frenchmen have felt for us or we for them.

It is such incidents as this pleasant exchange of messages between the Presidents of the two countries, so widely separated and yet, as President Coolidge said in his cablegram, now brought closer by aviation, that one notes the feeling of unbroken friendship between America and France. And every true American must be glad that the eventual fight and the kindly French message with reference to it inspired in our President the fine and friendly sentiment that "it must increase our heritage of sympathy and understanding."

THE NEW REGIME

An American novelist who has been making an extended tour through the South American republics says that the girls in the Argentine and Brazil are breaking away from their chaperons. In the best circles every cultured dandy has her duenna. But now the maidens are learning to go out under their own power and it is possible for them to meet their sweethearts without the presence of a third party. The girls are smoking cigarettes and dancing American measures to jazz accompaniment. The influence of the American beauty has evidently penetrated the southern half of the hemisphere. If the old-timers in Brazil and Argentina are grieved about it they have not yet sent any note of complaint to the government at Washington.

THE GIRL AND THE GUN

First thing we know the men will be forming a protective league with the idea of breaking up the sale of pistols to girls. When a lady buys a galling she doesn't expect to shoot craps or curl her hair with it. Nervous males aver the program for world disarmament should begin in the home.

SMOKE UP!

A physician well known for his antipathy to tobacco and his recommendations as to its disease says that a meat diet conduces to the tobacco habit. After eating meat a smoker always begins to smoke, he asserts. Also after eating artichokes, cabbage, chili and beans, Swiss cheese, fried eggs or almost any old eatable.

IN DAYS OF OLD

Those delvers from America who have been prodding the soil of Mesopotamia are not all prospecting for oil. Some of them are the intellectuals who have been uncovering the ancient city of Kish. They represent the Field Museum of Chicago and are just beginning to realize on their labor. They promise that next year they will be able to speak authoritatively of some of the happenings of that venerable section of the earth more than 3000 years before the birth of Christ.

Twenty or thirty feet under the ruins of a temple built by Nabonidus, King of Babylon, in the sixth century before the Christian era, the explorers uncovered relics and remnants of the earliest Sumerian civilization. These people came into the land through the mountains passes north and east more than 5000 years ago. They reclaimed the marshes around the mouths of the Euphrates and Tigris and raised their flocks and herds. From the hills they took possession of the plain of Shinar. They came as a race with shaved heads, wearing kilt-like garments of shaggy wool and using stone implements. Yet they furnished the first material development in the art of war. Their soldiers were drilled and, when on the battlefield, their spear-men would throw themselves into a solid phalanx against which the enemy would hurl themselves in vain. They held possession of the country and remained unconquered until the day of Sargon. They learned to fashion utensils of copper and devised a system of cuneiform writing on tablets of clay. They also developed an art in the painting and decorating of pottery.

This much is already known and much more will be disclosed as the uncovering goes on. The average citizen will say that such exploration is silly and expensive, but it becomes very fascinating and to the writers and makers of history it proves of vast importance. The records and tales of the earliest civilizations are of rapt interest to the thinkers of today.

LINDBERGH
 BY T. HOWARD WILSON
 Dauntless he sailed with his plane
 Through the lanes of the lonely
 air,
 Doughty and brave o'er the ocean
 stream,
 Fearless to do and dare.

Out of the West like a bird he flew,
 Eager and lithe and bold,
 Topping the crags where the whirlwinds blow,
 Spurning the lairs of cold.

Like a sprite from an unseen world he went,
 Upheld by an unseen hand,
 Careless of Night in her sable tent
 And careless of Death's grim hand.

Over the hills and the vales he sped,
 Over the Caliban Sea,
 Over the wrecks of the daring dead
 That gaze at him wistfully.

Mated with gods in his wonder flight,
 Yield him his meed of praise;
 Crown him with glory and fame and light,
 Weave him immortal bays!

Burn on your altars of faith again
 Incense of love and truth;
 Build up your courage that dead
 hath laid,
 Honor the urge of youth!

Maker of men that are brave and true,
 May we not faint and fall;
 Make us to see in the valiant few
 Worth that is meant for all!

Over the sea this mad youth sped,
 Glory and fame he won!
 Sorrow we hold for the mighty dead;
 Praise that the deed is done!

RASPUTIN'S INFLUENCE

The Moscow government recently published the fifth and last volume of the correspondence between Nicholas II and his wife, the Empress Alexandra. From this collection it appears that almost all the appointments and removals of ministers and other high officials between 1916 and 1917 were due to the intervention of Rasputin, whose tool the Empress had become. The influence that the Czarina induced her husband to deny every concession to the Liberal or Constitutional parties up to the last hour of the imperial regime.

In one letter, dated December 6, 1916, the Empress wrote: "You must be a real autocrat, and you must in all matters obey your devoted wife and our friend." And when the autocrat was not sufficiently obedient Alexandra renewed her exhortations. Three days before the revolution of February, 1917, she urged the Czar to resist the forces of the Left. "You are master, impose silence upon them. They must tremble before their emperor. You are the Lord's anointed, and this they must not be allowed to forget. Let them feel the master's fist from time to time. How many times have I been told that what they need is the knout."

The very day of the abdication the Empress was sure that the whole thing was just a joke. "I would swear on my life that we will see you back on the throne," she wrote. "I am certain that the whole army will rise in your behalf."

Alexandra kept herself well informed, and thus advised her husband of the latest news from Germany. "There is revolution there. Wilhelm is dead and his son wounded. This is the work of the Free Masons."—[L'Europe Nouvelle.]

TERRIBLE UNCERTAINTY
 "Richard, I wish I could feel perfectly certain that I am the only girl you've ever loved."

"So do I, darling."—[Pathfinder.]

THE SAME WAY
 "Darling," she said, breathlessly, "one feels as we speed along that life is really and truly worth living."

"Yes," he replied, "and, judging from the way the pedestrian records us, they feel that way, too."—[Weekly Scotsman.]

Where Does the Blame Lie?

LOS ANGELES, May 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I must surely take exception to the letter by M. L. Sanderson entitled "Separated Married" as the very latest lady I ever met belonged in this class. She has four lovely children and is worshiped and received in the very best homes. Her husband left town with a single girl and she did not believe in divorce. Rather than let the world know of her husband's unfaithfulness she poses as a widow and who can blame her?

I find that the real home wreckers are not the "separated married," but the single girls who think it perfectly proper to go about with the married men. There is a "separated married" man for every woman, too, but nothing was said about that. A woman usually has to have some real reason for breaking up the home. The Mackaye case, as Mr. Sanderson mentioned, has nothing to do with this subject, as the husband was living with his wife and, if he had not been there, it would not have happened. How about the single girl who shot her married employer? How about the Snyder case, where both parties were living with their mates? Is it not much better to separate than live with some one who is unworthy and dishonorable?

If a woman has no money what is she going to do about getting her freedom and should she be isolated simply because some man does not appreciate a decent wife? Can she live on nothing and why should she tell her employer her personal affairs? She is there to do her work and if she is competent and ladylike, what more does he want? No one wants to live this way and there is usually a reason for it. I have worked in many offices and always found that the "party around" at night that Mr. Sanderson mentions was done by the married men and single girls and the wife was called up to be told that he was "out on business." Judge not is the best thing to do in any case, until you are aware of both "ides of the question and then let him who is without sin throw the first stone."

More and Bull

PASADENA, May 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I should like to know why people rail at the cruelty of Spanish bullfights and yet American sportsmen enjoy the heartlessness of the rodeo. To me the most wicked part is the riding of so-called bucking broncos. Really wild horses are seldom used.

I have seen in Denver at Orland Park horses put in pens baited with food and then the riders couldn't see over them, clutched so tight they could scarcely breathe and the riders on them spurring and gashing them until the poor animals were beside themselves with terror and pain, galloping and bucking in this narrow inclosure trying to rid themselves of the abusive beast of a man. When the gates are finally thrown open the horses rush out and back, rear, roll—anything to shake off this devil who sits astride their poor, tender sides with those sharp, gashing spurs.

Mentally blind, thoughtless people cheer the rider because he sticks to his wild mount—never giving the wretched animal a thought.

But what about the agony and feelings of the horse? He has them. It's time we gave him a thought.

Correcting a Correction

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Friend Sherer writes to correct Friend Brinnistool with reference to the place of origin of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Brinnistool says it was originated in the Arcadia Block. Sherer says the Downey Block. Brinnistool says it had, at the start, forty members; Sherer says about twenty-five. Where the first called meeting was held I cannot say; it may have been in the Downey Block and there may have been twenty-five people present; but I am certain that the first quarters fitted up with athletic appointments and adopted as a regular meeting place was a loft in the Arcadia Block. It was recommended to us as the only available place in town, large enough for our purposes, to be had for a rental within our means. It was a rather barny place, but we had good times there and made the most of a crude beginning. Subsequently the club removed to the Downey Block, where a better gymnasium was established in a more attractive hall. When the loft was made up it was found that we had just forty members. This fact is impressed upon my mind by a joke. The committee selected at the first meeting to suggest a name for the organization reported two or three, as alterations, and one of them (by way of banter) was "The Forty Thieves." It raised a laugh and thereby probably achieved its object, but, naturally, was not adopted. Isn't this pretty good circumstantial evidence as to the number of original members? In addition to those mentioned by your two correspondents as in the first enrollment I recall Fred W. Wood, Andy Lawrence, George S. Safford and George Lockwood, the train dispatcher. W. A. SPALDING.

PAIR SENTENCED IN COW THEFTS

Cattle Rustling Convictions Bring Prison Terms

Third of Antelope Valley Trio Granted Probation

Grand Jury Inquiry Ordered for Other Cases

Charles Thompson, 27 years of age, of Lancaster, and his brother, Samuel, 23, recently convicted of stealing four cows belonging to J. L. Armstrong, were sentenced to San Quentin prison yesterday for a period of from one to ten years by Superior Judge Stephens, who denied their applications for probation. Percy Sweet, 20, of Bakersfield, who was convicted with the Thompson brothers,

EMBEZZLEMENT ADMITTED BY CABALLERO

Juan Francisco Caballero, facing trial on seven charges ranging from forgery to embezzlement, yesterday appeared before Superior Judge Craig and pleaded guilty to embezzling $1800 from Mrs. Helen Rodriguez while he was an employee of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank. He was granted permission to file an application for probation on the count, the sixth of the seven of which he is accused. W. J. Ford acted as counsel for the defendant. Judge Craig will rule on the application for probation on June 10. As many sympathizers had signed a petition for leniency presented to Judge Stephens. The probation officer's report which was accepted by Judge Stephens in passing judgment in the case indicated that the investigation of the three men was one of the most exhaustive in the history of the department. More than 150 persons were interviewed to ascertain the previous reputation of the three defendants. It was pointed out.

WAVE OF RESENTMENT
The Thompson case has created a wave of resentment among Antelope Valley ranchers who crowded the courtroom to the doors to hear sentence pronounced. Many of them were in constant attendance throughout the trial. On the other hand the same time action will be taken on the six remaining charges which yesterday were continued until that date. Meanwhile Caballero will be confined in the County Jail pending the outcome of his case. Judge Craig having denied permission for him to be released again on $10,000 bail.

MIDNIGHT ROUND-UPS
Evidence, not admitted to the court record during the trial, was furnished to probation officers in their investigation. Neighbors told of midnight "round-ups" at the Thompson ranch, where numerous calves were branded—always after dark. They also stated that new stock was brought to the pasture frequently during the night. The investigation, however, showed that Percy Sweet had never before been in serious trouble and that his reputation was good.

In his report, Vincke, probation officer, discredited the value of the petition for leniency presented to Judge Stephens. "In checking over the names of the petition that was signed on behalf of these defendants," he said, "we find that at least three are now on parole or probation on bookkeeping charges and one is a disorderly conduct and also that a number signed the petition through a misunderstanding, thinking that the defendants would be punished and later paroled, and a large portion signed through sympathy for the defendants' families."

Another development was revealed yesterday which came as a result of the Thompson investigation, according to Deputy Sheriff, Glenn Young, origin of a co-defendant with the Thompson brothers and Sweet, but who was released for lack of evidence, was arrested on a Bakersfield charge of embezzlement pertaining to the disappearance of an automobile.

SPEAKER IN TILT OVER VOTE ISSUE

Planning Commissioner Takes Public Issue With Beverly Boulevard Folk

Walter M. Danburg of the City Planning Commission took issue with a group of property owners in the vicinity of Beverly Boulevard over the respective merits of Proposition No. 1 and Proposition No. 2 on the June 7 ballot before the Open Forum of the City Club last night.

The property owners, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Mayr and representing the Beverly Boulevard Association, endorsed Proposition No. 1, which they initiated through a petition containing more than 9000 certified signatures. The plan for the placing in Class A all property along the entire twelve miles of Beverly Boulevard, from Los Angeles to the sea, such classification to extend 1000 feet on either side of the boulevard.

These speakers opposed Proposition No. 2 on the ground that it was an instrument instigated by subdividers for the purpose of selling at advanced prices so-called income property. They maintained that their plan would make this boulevard the scenic wonder of Southern California and one of the greatest thoroughfares in the entire world.

They declared that the alternate plan, favored by the Planning Commission, would permit of changes and alterations from time to time to the detriment of the entire district.

Mr. Danburg favored No. 2 as a scientifically worked out zoning plan. He denied that this plan allows for more Class B areas than did No. 1 but pointed out that he was sure the commission's plan would be upheld in the courts while he doubted if such would prove true of No. 1, owing to the fact that it arbitrarily cut through at a set point irrespective of lot lines.

In rebuttal one of the associates pointed out that it was a matter for the Planning Commission to straighten out any weaknesses in No. 1 should it be passed. Approximately fifty persons were present and joined the discussion.

RUSHES HOME TO FACE COURT
Accused Antelope Returns on Hearing of Warrant for Manslaughter

When he learned that Los Angeles police held a warrant for his arrest on a manslaughter charge Charles R. Blake, 31 years of age, returned here from Seattle and surrendered, it was revealed yesterday.

Blake, according to the complaint, is charged with causing the death of Joseph Meiner, employee of a local newspaper, as a result of injuries received when the aged man was struck down by Blake's automobile on March 23, last.

Judge Blake set preliminary hearing on the charge for June 2, next, and fixed bail at $2800.

VINEYARDISTS PICK DIRECTOR

D. D. Conn of Washington to Manage Organization

New Head Well Trained for Particular Work

Step Taken to Bring Order to Grape Industry

Announcement was made yesterday by the directors of the California Vineyardists' Association of the appointment of Donald D. Conn, Washington, D. C., as managing director of the organization.

The grape industry, with particular reference to their industry, and struggling in a more or less chaotic state with reference to production, shipping and marketing.

HAS TRAFFIC EXPERIENCE
Conn, who is 39 years of age, was born on a ranch near Livingston, Mont., and worked his way through college. After graduating he rose rapidly to the position of assistant to the vice-president in charge of traffic of one of the eastern railroads.

In 1920 he was chosen by the United States Congress as head of the transportation and distribution division of the Joint Commission on Agricultural Inquiry, and made an exhaustive study of the complete report on the agricultural crisis obtaining during those years.

As chairman of the northwest government coal commission during the period of the coal strike of 1922, Conn represented the States of Montana, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin. The railroads in the country through the agency of the American Railway Association then sought Conn's services. During the past five years he has organized fourteen regional shippers' transportation advisory boards, composed of more than 40,000 members, and representing every branch of agriculture and industry in the United States.

GRAPE CROP HEAVY
The announcement from the Vineyardists' Association includes the following statistical statement: "California produces 94 per cent of all grapes grown in the United States. Of a total production of 2,187,000 tons in the entire country during 1926, 2,040,000 tons were grown in the State of California. The actual production in California has grown from approximately 1,000,000 tons in 1914 to 1,380,000 tons in 1919, and to 2,040,000 tons in 1926. This large increase in volume has not, in itself, precipitated the problem, but it has rather been caused primarily by an entire rearrangement of the channels of manufacture and consumption. As evidence of the demand for grapes, efficient distribution methods the fresh-grape shipments in 1916 were only 10,845 cars; in 1919, 21,608 cars. This had, increased to 78,800 carloads in 1926, and to 84,400 carloads in 1926."

BALD BARBERS HAVE RIVAL

Ex-Traffic Officer in East Gets in Bad Here on Traffic Charge

Bald-headed barbers and the barefooted offspring of the shoemakers may be likened to M. J. Ryan, one-time Kansas City traffic officer, who was arrested here yesterday for a traffic violation that is almost without precedent, according to local police records.

Ryan made the trip from Kansas City, through New Mexico, Arizona and much of California (with 1925 license plates attached to his automobile. It was not until he reached Grand avenue and Pico street and passed under the gaze of Traffic Officer Hames that Ryan was stopped.

Operator of First Cable Car in City and Joined Police Department in 1887

Funeral services for Miles T. Bowler, 71 years of age, one-time member of the Los Angeles Police Department and chief special agent for the Southern Pacific when he retired from that office in 1910, will be conducted at 2 p.m. today at the Ferris funeral parlors, Tenth and Flower streets. Born in Maine, Mr. Bowler moved to San Francisco in 1880. There he operated the first cable car and subsequently was brought to Los Angeles to operate the first cable car on Temple street. He became a member of the local police department in 1887, joining with one-time Chief of Police Walter T. Auble, who was shot and killed by bandits September 9, 1908. Pour into a freezer and freeze. To a mush, line a mold with halves of cooked and pitted prunes. Cover with frozen cream and fill the mold with alternate layers of cooked prune halves and the cream. Pack in two parts and freeze. Unmold on a cold plate and cut in slices for serving. Over each serve pour a hot caramel sauce made by putting the inside of an enamel saucepan and placing in it two squares of unsweetened chocolate and a cupful of light brown sugar, stir in two cupfuls of light brown sugar and when this is well mixed stir in one-half cupful of milk and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Cook until it will form a soft ball, when a little is dropped in cold water.

Athletic Club
Protests Road Through Links

The Los Angeles Athletic Club protested to the City Council against plans for a road connection between the Coast Highway and Beverly Boulevard, via Santa Monica Canyon and through the club's golf grounds. The communication, which was referred to the City Engineer and the street opening and widening committee, contended that no evidence exists to support a report to the City Engineer's Department that such a road connection has been in use several years "and has therefore become a public highway through implied dedication." It also declared that there are two other ways of serving that section of the canyon without the cost of a roadway through the golf course, "and without the wanton destruction of the property of the club."

JOLSON'S THE REAL "BIG BOY"

Horse-Race Finish Captures the Plaudits

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT
You can expect a double if you want in this big horse-race finish that brings the thousands of applause, but the rest Al Jolson does himself. And it's the mits to have him in town once again. He retains the Jolson style, the Jolson fun and the Jolson songs, and if "Big Boy" isn't the widely uproarious show that "Bombo" was a few seasons ago, it's a big show just the same.

"Big Boy" centered in last night at the Biltmore. Yes, it's the name of a horse. And Al is the jockey—and his name is Gus. He has won that appellation, cognomen of whatever you want to call it, long enough so that there it doesn't make much difference what sort of part he plays, his identity is never going to be confused. It couldn't be. Jolson does most of the tricks. There is a good large chorus, hard-working, and with some reservations, very good-looking (much better than the average valet as a matter of fact). There is a dancing violinist, a girl who sings O-De-De-De-O, an ovation, and a smart little dancer, and a lot of other people who in various ways help the show along. The ones I have named individually are the best.

"Big Boy" has an ample plot. It is about a Kentucky family, and horse-racing and frame-ups, and the last-minute saving of the race by Gus. The plot is nothing new nor unexpected, and there are hula when Jolson is off the stage, but he is on things amble along, and speed. It seemed a bit of a job at times, edging in the songs, but the show was abundant, and when everything was told that had to be told about the horse race Jolson stepped down to the front and entertained his friends, as only Jolson can, for the better part of an hour, with song after song and joke after joke, and "You ain't heard nothin' yet" punctuating it all.

That's the moment that everybody waits for in a Jolson show. Of course, a first-night audience here for Jolson is an inspiration. Everybody in the audience, and Jolson knows it, is at the starting line as his friends, with laughs scored right off, and increasing. There were Scotch jokes, and Tiddish jokes, and imitations, burlesques, including one of Jolson's famous weeping emotional travesties of the glum-faced weakling who operates take-off that was capital fun.

"I won the race; I was riding a Scotch horse," somebody says. "Gee, that must have been a close race." "I've never been able to ride a jockey," remarks a silly-as-Englishman.

"Why don't you get out yourself," answers Al. "I know the preacher says the lion and the lamb will lie down together." "Yes, but only the lion will get up."

He says that I'm a skunk; that my father is a skunk; that my brother is a skunk; that the whole family are skunks. How would you like a fur coat from us?

"Have strawberries got legs on them? No? Lord, then, I've swallowed a worm."

"She was a waitress in an insane asylum. She served soup to nuts." "A Scotchman had a toothache and went to the dentist. He asked the dentist how much it would cost to pull the tooth. The dentist said $5. The Scotchman said, 'What will it cost to loosen it?'"

"Here's the chicken soup" (in a night club scene). "It's fine. It's the water we boil the eggs in." In a scene in which Jolson appears selling favors to raise money for charity—"How much shall I give?" asks somebody. "Give till it hurts," answers Jolson. "Well, here's a dime." "Is that all? Say—you bruise easily, don't you?"

He brings in a half lobster and "Here's the fish and the devil." "I had a job as a chauffeur, and I lost it." "Why did you lose it?" "Oh, I got caught driving the car around without permission." "How did they know you were doing it?" "Why, I knocked down the owner."

Jolson sings "The Red, Red Robin" per request from a woman from Monterey, so he said: "Trouble is a Bubble." "Ain't she sweet?" and various other numbers. A novelty as the negro spiritual, given by him with a male chorus.

The book of the show is by Harold Altshuler, and the lyrics by B. O. De Sylva, and the music by James Hanley and Joseph Meyer. The book is a comedy, and the lyrics are a comedy, and the music is a comedy.

Virginia Watson, who does most of the dancing and some of the song numbers, as well, is very pleasing. She received quite a tribute for the number "Come On and Play." Frankie James has a striking personality, that enhanced the "O-de-de-de-o" number. Ich is still in high favor. Ariole Craven kept the tone of her violin quite perfect, while going through some difficult poses in a plastic type of dance. Jolson has capable leaders for his comedy bits. Franklin Batte, Colin Campbell and William Thorne. The company is unusually large.

Altogether, "Big Boy" is a big show, and without doubt you'll enjoy it, especially Jolson's final entertainment, which is always unequalled and quite his own.

NATLI BARR IN REEL

Natli Barr made her screen debut in America last night at the Ambassador Theater when Wild Gunning presented her in a studio reel "made to order" for the convention of First National sales chiefs and producing organization, in which Milton Sills cinematically chose Miss Barr as his leading lady. Richard Rowland, vice-president of the company, met her in Paris and signed her for American films.

STAR ACTS DIVIDE HONORS
The Russian Master Singers, a quartet of highly accomplished vocal artists, and the Brewster Pomeroy Revue, a colorful bit of jazz and dancing, were the double head attractions at the Pantages Theater yesterday afternoon.

For lovers of vocal entertainment, the Russian group offered an interesting selection of numbers, presented with effective and atmospheric settings. A clever little dancer was also introduced to offer contrast to the act.

Of the five numbers given, two in particular are worth noting. The "Song of the Volga Boatman" was by far the most effective musically while the "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" pleased with its quaint mode of rendition.

The Brewster Pomeroy Revue was not startlingly different from other vaudeville revues. The dancers were pretty and clever, voices good, costumes effective and settings elaborate. A young dancer was undoubtedly the hit of the revue. This youthful gentleman apparently lacked bones in any part of his body. His "scarecrow" number was positively uncanny and almost stopped the show.

Appearing in a European novelty were Pomeroy and Shelly, who offered a comedy "sawdust" and musical program. The musical program introduced an unusual instrumental combination, in the form of accordion and violin. The two comedians were adept on their respective instruments.

An act that proved enjoyable from one end to the other was presented by the character actress, Jane Dillon. Miss Dillon chose to portray an array of masculine personages, and was quickly accomplished in every type. Her act was a distinct favorite on the bill.

A dialogue "patter" act presented by Gordon and Pierre concluded the vaudeville performance. "The Heart of Salome," featuring Alma Reubens and Walter Pidgeon, was the film attraction. It was a weird tale of Paris and a noted Parisian beauty who thought that she possessed the heart of Salome. Others in the cast included Barry Norton, Bobby Agnew, Holmes Herbert and Tom Dugan. The production was directed by Victor Schemitzner.

A series of short reels completed the bill.

EGYPTIAN REOPENING EXPECTED

"Topsy and Eva" Reported Ready for Showing Within Ten Days

"Topsy and Eva," a United Artists release in which the Duncan sisters are starred, will open at Grauman's Egyptian Theater within the next ten days, it was learned yesterday from Sid Grauman.

The date of the opening has not been set. The picture, said to be one of the funniest comedies on record, is still undergoing some cutting, and Grauman himself will see it for the first time today.

"Topsy and Eva" is the first United Artists picture to be shown in the Egyptian since the theater became a United Artists house. It is to be given as a prologue, or stage presentation, different from anything seen in Los Angeles, according to present plans.

The Duncan sisters themselves, with a company of forty persons will be seen in a typical "Topsy and Eva" presentation to last thirty minutes before the film opening. Members of the company supporting the Duncan sisters have been recruited by Sid Grauman and that master showman is planning the details of the prologue according to his custom.

The picture "Topsy and Eva" was directed by Del Lord at the recently rebuilt United Artists studio. It brings to the screen two famous comedienne and the show which they wrote and enacted before successful audiences all over the country. "Topsy and Eva" as a stage vehicle, first saw the light of day in California and hence it is fitting that it be given its world premiere as a picture in Hollywood.

Delayed Comedy to Arrive at Morosco Sunday

"The Creaking Chair," which opens at the Morosco Sunday afternoon, has for its background all the interesting and mysterious lore of Egypt. It is a farcical mystery by Allene Tupper Wilkerson and ran for a year in London and a year in New York concurrently. It is one of the newest "spook" plays and is said to be one of the funniest.

Kay Hammond and John Littel will star. Hansel Rending, Mitchell Harris, Jane Morgan, Ruth Handforth, James Bush, Harry Garrity, Frederick Pymmo, Charles Bickel, Charles Buck and William Morgan will be in the supporting cast. James Durken is directing.

"The Pater," the comedy of Barry Connors, will close Saturday night. The tale of a Japanese long-tail rooster sometimes grows to a length of twenty feet.

OTIS SKINNER TRIUMPHS ANEW

Veteran Actor's Return is Warmly Applauded

"The Honor of the Family" Fight for Fortune

Story Hinges on Selfish Flight for Fortune

BY GRACE KINGSLEY
The honor and reputation of Otis Skinner and his professional family were all brilliantly upheld in "The Honor of the Family," which opened before a very large audience at the Playhouse last night.

"The Honor of the Family" has withstood the onslaught of several years of encroaching sea dramas, mystery melodramas and what-not, and comes forth triumphant, a shining example of what ingenious plot stuff plus more than a dash of piquant comedy, plus what is far more, a real glimpse into this curious thing called human nature, can do when properly exploited, in the setting of a whole bunch of people after an old man's money, which forms the theme of the play, where is visible, especially the masterly last act, the skilled hand of the genius of Balzac, laying here a touch of compassion, there a great wave of sympathy for these people who, after all, all must fight for the wherewithal to live. Even though there is cynicism in the portrait of the young girl working on the sensibility of an old man to gain his fortune in order to marry a man with whom she is infatuated, even though that cynicism is augmented by the fact that her steadfastness even to that love wavers before the onslaught of a masterly older lover and the urge of her van, still, in her poignant if perhaps slightly shallow grief at her lover's death, you suffer with her.

The honor and reputation of Otis Skinner and his professional family were all brilliantly upheld in "The Honor of the Family," which opened before a very large audience at the Playhouse last night.

"The Honor of the Family" has withstood the onslaught of several years of encroaching sea dramas, mystery melodramas and what-not, and comes forth triumphant, a shining example of what ingenious plot stuff plus more than a dash of piquant comedy, plus what is far more, a real glimpse into this curious thing called human nature, can do when properly exploited, in the setting of a whole bunch of people after an old man's money, which forms the theme of the play, where is visible, especially the masterly last act, the skilled hand of the genius of Balzac, laying here a touch of compassion, there a great wave of sympathy for these people who, after all, all must fight for the wherewithal to live. Even though there is cynicism in the portrait of the young girl working on the sensibility of an old man to gain his fortune in order to marry a man with whom she is infatuated, even though that cynicism is augmented by the fact that her steadfastness even to that love wavers before the onslaught of a masterly older lover and the urge of her van, still, in her poignant if perhaps slightly shallow grief at her lover's death, you suffer with her.

A situation, bitterly ironic, bitterly close to life, is that in which the girl finds herself, following the mortal wounding of her lover, unable to visit him, has prisoner in her benefactor's house more by virtue of her helpless bondages to her own cupidity, the sordid fear for her financial future, and the force of habit, than by any actual restraint.

The dashing, daring, robust Mr. Fitzhugh Col. Forrester, was dashing, daring, robustly played by the dashing, daring, robust Mr. Skinner. A thoroughly refreshing, delightful characterization, of course. As the man who clears his senile uncle's home of the would-be robbers and usurpers of his mother's rights, he is quite as superbly successful as ever.

Acting honors of the play are really shared by a brilliant young Edna, who plays the role of the girl, whose deftly expressive and vivid expression, if one may so phrase it, whose emotions, whose strength, remind one at times of Pauline Frederick. She has a lovely voice and lovely elegant hands. Her role is one of great subtlety and many shades, to which at every moment she does full justice. Her role is the only really fine character study in the play. Her varying moods in the act, as she wavers between grief and faithfulness to her dead lover, a human longing for the good things of this life, and months of entire forgetfulness of self in her desire to be quit of all that has made her unhappy in the old man's house, are most skilfully played.

And what a variant that on the old situation of the taming-of-the-shrew theme, when the hero, nearly succumbing himself to the girl's wiles, discovers her in time to throw her out, bag and baggage. One did fear so at moments for the asocherous ending.

Very excellent was the playing of Robert Harrison as the old man, Jean Jacques Rouget, while the dashing looks and personality of Constance White were quite enough to keep any young woman in love with him. The other parts were all nicely played, including the role done by Julia Shaw, D. V. Deering, William Clark, Edward Butler, Harry Burk, Eugene O'Brien, Eugene O'Brien, Eugene O'Brien, William F. Granger and Albert Berg.

Glaring sun arcs and clicking motion-picture cameras will usher in the premiere of Gloria Swanson's first United Artists picture, "The Love of Sunya," at the Criterion Theater tomorrow evening.

In conjunction with the premiere of this film, Gloria Swanson will appear on the stage in person, marking the first time her star has made a personal stage appearance in any theater.

A long list of filmgoers' stars have already secured seats reservations. Among those who have signified their intention of attending are Norma Talmadge, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, John Barrymore, Constance Talmadge, Rosetta Duncan, Vivian Duncan, Estelle Taylor, Jack Dempsey, Richard Barthelmess, Belle Bennett, Joan Crawford, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Alec B. Francis, Raymond Griffith, Carmelita Geraghty, James Kirkwood, Lila Lee, Eugene O'Brien, Rod La Rocque, Vilma Banky, Lois Wilson, John Boles, leading man of "The Love of Sunya," and a long list of others. AMERICAN PROGRAM

BY ORATORIO SOCIETY

Rafaelo Diaz will sing the tenor role in "Music, An Ode," by Henry Hedley, to be presented at the Shrine Auditorium Friday night by the Los Angeles Oratorio Society.

Diaz, a lyric tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will be remembered for his role as Lionel Rhodes in Cadogan's "Bianca." The artistic instinct and pure diction of Diaz have made such lasting impressions on Los Angeles audiences that the lovers of music in Southern California are anxiously waiting the further opportunity of hearing him in this last oratorio of the season.

This program will be an all-American number and will have the cooperation of the Glendale Music Association and three junior choirs from local churches.

The Problem of Restoration.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

PUTTING IT TOGETHER AGAIN

AFTER THE CIVIL WAR CAME THE PROBLEM OF WHAT SHOULD BE DONE WITH THE SECEDED STATES. WHAT WAS THEIR STATUS? HAD THE VICTORY OF THE NORTH BROUGHT THEM BACK INTO THE UNION, OR WOULD THEY HAVE TO BE RECONSTRUCTED BEFORE BEING RE-ADMITTED?

PRESIDENT LINCOLN HAD HELD FROM THE FIRST THAT THE UNION AND THE STATES WERE ALIKE INDESTRUCTIBLE. HE DECLARED THAT SECESSION HAD MERELY PUT SOME OF THE STATES TEMPORARILY "OUT OF THEIR PROPER PRACTICAL RELATION TO THE UNION," AND HE MEANT TO RESTORE THEM BY A JUST AND SANE SETTLEMENT.

IN DECEMBER, 1863, HE HAD OFFERED FULL PARDON TO ALL PERSONS IN THE SECEDED STATES, EXCEPT SECESSIONIST LEADERS, IF THEY WOULD TAKE AN OATH TO UPHOLD THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION AND ACCEPT EMANCIPATION. HE ALSO PROMISED TO RECOGNIZE ANY STATE GOVERNMENT IN THE SOUTH THAT WAS SUPPORTED BY ONE-TENTH OF THE LEGAL VOTERS OF 1860 OF THAT STATE WHO HAD TAKEN THE OATH.

THE RADICAL REPUBLICANS BELIEVED LINCOLN TOO LENIENT. THEY DENOUNCED HIS POLICY OF RESTORATION. IN 1864, THE WADE-DAVIS BILL, WHICH REQUIRED SOUTHERN STATES TO BE RECONSTRUCTED BEFORE THEY COULD VOTE, WAS INTRODUCED. IT WAS TOO RIGID.

"But this is the best prize I have taken in yet," he declared yesterday at the marriage-license bureau, after a vote against him, while Glendenn of the University of California was only twenty-two votes behind him. The votes were cast without either the names of the boys or their colleges being revealed on the screen.

MILLION TO BE COST OF NEW CHURCH

Congregationalists Plan to Erect Structure on Site Donated by Woman

A new $1,000,000 church edifice is to be erected by the First Congregational Church on the northeast corner of Sixth and Commonwealth streets. It was announced last night.

The building is to rise on a site recently donated by Mrs. Clara R. Shatto, a member of the congregation. It will be one of the finest on the Coast, equipped with an auditorium, educational and recreational centers, according to James Wallace, secretary of the congregation.

Architectural plans are being prepared by Allison & Allison. Work will start on the edifice as soon as the plans are completed, it was stated.

The present church, at eighth and Hope streets, was outgrown several years ago. Double services have been necessary at the present building for the last two years in order to accommodate the congregation. Mr. Wallace said. Ample provision for future growth will be made in plans for the new structure.

Definite action toward construction was taken last Sunday. It was revealed, when the executive committee made its final report to the general building committee and recommended that the architectural plans be prepared at once. The executive committee is headed by H. Stanley Bent and includes C. E. Fisher, Judge Edward T. Bishop, Harvey S. Mudd, Miss Sue D. Barnwell, Mrs. Mary A. Cummings, Mrs. Shatto and Miss Cora L. Tatham. Dr. Lloyd C. Douglas is pastor.

U.S.C. GRADUATE EXERCISES OPEN

Commencement Program Set to Begin Today

Conferring of Degrees Will Occur at Coliseum

Final Ceremonies to Take Place June 4

The graduating class at the University of Southern California starts in on a program today that includes dinners, teas, addresses and reunions. The commencement exercises at the Coliseum, the morning of June 4, according to an announcement from university officials, Adam Leonard, has been chosen to make the address on behalf of the graduating seniors when they receive their diplomas.

BEGINS TODAY

Today the graduating program begins when the anniversary of the joint literary societies is celebrated. The last senior chapel will be conducted Thursday of this week.

The Coliseum will be the setting for the baccalaureate sermon, that is scheduled for the 29th inst., at 4 p.m. The Trojan women's tea for senior coeds will be held June 1 at 4 p.m. and the president's levee will occur the same day at 8 p.m. in the president's suite.

All coeds who have succeeded in becoming engaged during their time at the university will be honored by a party breakfast at the Delta Delta Delta sorority house the morning of June 2. This is an annual event and each bride-to-be steps through a wreath of flowers as a good-luck omen for her matrimonial career.

JUNE 3 IVY DAY

Ivy Day ceremonies have been set for June 3 at 2 p.m. and alumni class reunions will be held the same day at 7 p.m.

The academic procession will form in front of Bryant Auditorium at 9 a.m. June 4 and will march to the Coliseum for final graduation ceremonies.

Definite figures have not been given out on the number of seniors graduating, but it is estimated that the class will be larger than that of last year, when 1300 degrees were conferred.

FILM SALES TO EUROPE INCREASED

Metro-Goldwyn Executive Tells Salesmen of Growth in Foreign Business

Just how fast Europe is recovering from the war is indicated by the receipts of motion-picture theaters in various foreign countries, Arthur Loew, foreign manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, told salesmen of their organization at their convention at the Biltmore yesterday. In 1920 the European receipts were only 15 per cent of the total return from pictures made in Hollywood; but in 1926 they had jumped to 45 per cent of the total, he said.

Metro-Goldwyn salesmen also discussed the number of pictures a star should work in during a twelve months' period. Salesmen argued that the greater stars should appear in at least five a year to make box-office receipts hit the high spot, but they were opposed by officials of the company who declared that a star should not appear in more than two films. A compromise of three films finally was hit upon and it was agreed that Lon Chaney, John Gilbert, Greta Garbo and William Haines shall each make three; Jackie Coogan, two; Col. Tim McCoy, six; Kay Davenport and George Arthur, three, and Lew Cody and Allen Pringle, three.

Today delegates to the Metro-Goldwyn convention are to attend a barbecue and festival staged for them by the Metro-Goldwyn company after the business sessions have been completed.

Police Report Poison Taken After Quarrel

Mrs. Bertha McMicken, 32 years of age, who lives in an apartment-house at 637 North Bronson avenue, swallowed poison last night after a quarrel with a friend, according to a police report.

Walter Slater, president of Slater Roof, Inc., who lives in the same apartment-house, said he called on Mrs. McMicken to take her to dinner, a quarrel developed and Mrs. McMicken ran into the bathroom and took poison, Detective Lieutenant Stillwell reported. Slater, it was said, accompanied Mrs. McMicken to the Receiving Hospital.

Police Surgeon Kirkpatrick reported Mrs. McMicken's condition as critical. She is employed as a cashier, Stillwell said. She recently began divorce proceedings against her husband, the officer reported.

BRAVEY RECOGNIZED

Policeman, Hero of Bank-Bandit Fight, Presented with Medal

Detective Lieutenant Oscar Bayer yesterday received a bronze medal for conspicuous valor, presented at the request of the Police Commission. The presentation was made by Chief of Detectives Cline.

In August, 1925, Bayer, then a motorcycle policeman, battled with bank bandits on a downtown street, killing one and wounding another. A fellow-officer in the same battle was killed. Detective Lieutenant Gmash of the pawnshop detail retired yesterday at the conclusion of twenty years of service. His associates gave him a diamond-set badge and a gold watch.

"To the writers they might not have sounded so, but you men and women are experienced enough to know what it all means when a boy like this writes such silly things," he said.
Kelly came into court yesterday with a worried look on his face. He was pale and nervous and rushed when Mr. Murray testified.
Raymond's mother, Mrs. A. B. Cedarblom of Forest Hills, N. Y., wept quietly all during Mr. Murray's testimony and it was necessary for her to remain in the courtroom many minutes after the adjournment because she was able to leave with her friends.
Dr. Sullivan and Miss Mackay are jointly under indictment on charges of being accessories after the fact and with compounding a felony for their asserted attempts to conceal the facts of Raymond's death. Their trial is set for June 1 before Judge Burnell.
Taking testimony was completed in the case last Friday after two weeks.

Youth Shot by Hotel Man as Theft Suspect

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent
PASADENA, May 23.—Unusually business-like methods in the burglary trade turned out badly tonight for Alfred Moran, 18 years of age, according to police. Moran, according to the report, was shot by A. L. Wickerson, assistant manager of the Hotel Maryland, when he entered a bungalow of the hotel at 131 North Euclid avenue.
Moran, police said, admitted he had paid several previous visits to the bungalow, the occupants of which are in the East, and had taken away samples of silverware to have them tested for value. Police believe his visit tonight was to take away the silverware, the test proving satisfactory.
Moran's wound was described as slight. He is held for burglary.

Trio Leaves to Seek Data for Court Battle

Southward bound to obtain legal ammunition for the reopening of a thirty-year court battle involving the San Jose-Guatemala Railroad and Adolfo Stahl, San Francisco capitalist, a trio of attorneys, representing Stahl and opposing factions sailed from Los Angeles Harbor yesterday for Guatemala.
Andrew F. Burke and Frederick Crawford are making the trip in behalf of Stahl, while J. Thaddeus Clark is also aboard the Panama Mail liner Venezuela to represent the interests of fifteen planters who are stockholders in the Central American rail enterprise and charged Stahl with disposing of interests in the system to the International Railways of Central America against their wishes.
Although a foreign transaction the matter is scheduled to be heard in the Federal court at San Francisco, where the planters filed their complaint, on July 11, next. The attorneys are making the trip to obtain evidence and testimony.

STUDENTS COMMISSIONED

Twenty-eight Members of University R.O.T.C. Regiment Made Second Lieutenants

Twenty-eight students of the University of California at Los Angeles became full-fledged reserve officers of the United States Army yesterday at the final review of the university's R.O.T.C. regiment at Moore Field on the campus. The young men received commissions as second lieutenants in the organized reserve of the Army from the hands of Dr. Ernest C. Moore, director of the university. He was assisted by Col. Guy G. Palmer, commander of the university regiment, and Capt. Paul Fitzgerald, a veteran of the French Army and now professor of French civilization at the University.
The reserve officers have all completed advanced courses in military instruction at the university. They were also presented with cadet commissions signed by Gov. Young. These commissions recognized the rankings of the students thus honored in the R.O.T.C. regiment.
Presentation of the commissions and marksmanship medals to fifteen cadets who distinguished themselves on the rifle range during the year was preceded by the review of the entire regiment and band.
Mr. Company, commanded by Capt. C. F. Turill, carried off major honors in the final drill. It won the regimental drill and the sophomore cup donated by the Los Angeles Reserve Officers' Association.
Mr. Company, under command of Capt. Walter Hertog, took second honors. It was awarded the freshman cup, also donated by the Reserve Officers' Association.

THEATRICAL TRAIN SETS NEW RECORD

Santa Fe Wheels Jolson Special From Denver in Thirty-six Hours

The Santa Fe brought Al Jolson and his theatrical company in a special ten-car train from Denver yesterday, making the run here in thirty-six hours, a new record. This is twelve hours faster than the schedule of the California Limited and five hours faster than the Chief from La Junta. The company totaled 100 persons. Four Pullmans, three baggage cars, a horse car, a diner and Jolson's private car made up the equipment. Two engines were used for the whole trip. The crew included F. A. Gibbs and Frank Gillette, engineers; C. A. Staley and J. R. Richardson, firemen, and S. E. Kied, conductor.
Jolson appeared tanned and brown after a week of golf in Denver. This is his first visit here since "Bombo," three years ago.
The local engagement of his new musical show, "Big Boy," is limited to three weeks at the Biltmore Theater, after which he goes to San Francisco.

FOREIGN TRADE CLUB BACKS BID FOR MEET

The board of directors of the Foreign Trade Club of California has passed a resolution stating it is "unanimously" back of the desire of the Foreign Trade Club of Southern California to obtain the 1930 convention for Los Angeles. It is stated that "the full force of our decision will be registered on the floor of the fourteenth national convention in Detroit," which will be held tomorrow, Thursday and Friday. The co-operation of the northern body will be a great aid in the campaign to bring the convention to Los Angeles, according to officers of the Foreign Trade Club of Southern California.

Oratory and Strong Words Ring at Trial

There are just two more laps and the Kelly trial will be over. This morning Judge Burnell will give his instructions to the jury and the jury will come into the home stretch with a verdict. What and when, no one has the ghost of an idea, but current conjecture has it that the home stretch may be rather a long one, and there is some doubt as to whether a decision will ever be reached.

Paul Kelly looked decidedly sick yesterday as he sat listening to the closing argument of counsel. Doris Kelly, his sister, was laboring under considerable tension, too.

W. I. Gilbert harangued for about an hour and a half before he finished his argument to the jury and of that time he spent a large portion in the vilification of opposing counsel. A few little attempts at humor failed to bring more than a patronizing smile from the jurors, they evidently considering the situation too serious for levity.

Max Wagner comes in for a rap on every hand. Mr. Gilbert opined that strictly the jurors realized that "Maxie" didn't have sense enough to give testimony that had any weight at all, and as usual "Maxie" met the situation with a broad grin.

Leslie Fenton, star of "An American Tragedy," was an interested spectator during the afternoon. No doubt he was anxious to find out if justice is the same in real life as it is behind the footlights.

Both sides have put particular emphasis on the fact that their arguments are based on common sense and then, naturally, present viewpoints diametrically opposed. How is the jury to decide which of the two varieties of common sense is the right brand?

NEGRO'S GRIEF LAID TO LACK OF WILL POWER

"When I saw all 'at money, I just had no will power a-tall," is what Walter Williams, negro truck driver, said, according to the police, when arrested by Detective Lieutenants Beeson and Doyle charged with the theft of 0475 from Sontag Brothers of 450 South Main street. Morris Sontag told the police he believed Williams took the money from a cigar box in which it had been hidden by himself. Williams made a delivery of goods at Sontag's place of business yesterday morning. It was reported, and was sought by the police when the money was missing. The arresting officers report finding a roll of money—$475—inside Williams' shirt when arrested in a restaurant at Third and Traction streets. He is said to have confessed.

DEATH AGAIN PAYS VISIT TO INGMIRE

Third Mortality Occurs in Family in Two Months as Mother Succumbs

Death struck again at the Ingmire family yesterday, the third time in less than two months.
Mrs. Elizabeth Ingmire, mother of E. P. Ingmire, the Union Oil Company official who was crushed to death when the car in which he was riding with his wife was struck by another machine in which two Federal dry agents were driving, died early yesterday at her home at 1708 East Thirty-seventh street. She died unaware of the tragic death of her son, however, and also in ignorance of the death of her aged husband, who had preceded her to the grave by about a month.
Critically ill for months, friends and relatives had agreed to withhold all word of the double tragedy from her.
It was while returning from a visit at the bedside of her father, Gilbert D. Ingmire, 77 years of age, that the son, E. P. Ingmire, met death in the automobile crash as a result of which the two Federal dry men, George Hudson and Frank Farley, together with three sailors and a woman, were indicted on second-degree murder charges.
The case against the two dry agents is now pending in the Federal courts. Mrs. Ingmire, the mother, will be laid to rest tomorrow at the Evergreen Cemetery. Funeral services are to be conducted at 2 p. m. at the funeral home at Huntington Park.
DR. J. E. BASSETT DIES
Dr. J. E. Bassett, 2785 West Eighth street, died yesterday. Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the chapel in Hollywood Cemetery.

IDEAL LOCATION for Personal Service

THE central downtown location of the Union Bank fits admirably with the spirit of Personal Service which characterizes the Bank.

It is convenient, and easy of access, from any part of the city.

You'll find the officers of the Bank are likewise easy to see; they are always glad of opportunity to talk with customers of the Bank, and to render any service connected with business or banking needs.
